

Meet our Speakers:

Beth Steinhorn

Jerome Tennille, CVA

As president of VQ Volunteer Strategies, Beth Steinhorn partners with organizations and their leadership to increase impact through strategic and innovative volunteer engagement. Beth has authored multiple books and articles on strategic volunteer engagement and helped found The National Alliance for Volunteer Engagement to advance the national dialogue about volunteerism and engagement.

Jerome Tennille is a Corporate Responsibility and Social Impact strategist who works in the hospitality industry and advises on volunteerism independently. His work focuses on designing, planning, and executing corporate employee volunteer programming to create positive social and environmental impact. Prior to his work in corporate responsibility, he was the Senior Manager of Volunteer Services for Tragedy Assistance Program for Survivors (TAPS), a national nonprofit that serves military families experiencing loss. Jerome is also a veteran of the U.S. Navy.

What You Will Learn:

*As disruptions unfolded in recent years, organizations faced a choice: innovate how they engage volunteers or risk their ability to fulfill their mission. Innovators leveraged disruption as a release from traditional practices and forged new paths to impact. Hear how some leaders partnered with volunteers to sustain services and mission despite the disruptions, rather than hibernating volunteer engagement. In this interactive session, we will gather in small breakouts to reflect on the factors that most disrupted your practices, share strategies that worked, and apply lessons from your peers and from the stories that comprise the new book, Transforming Disruption to Impact: Rethinking Volunteer Engagement for a Rapidly Changing World, so that you can leave with an action plan to continue to engage volunteers no matter what the future brings.*
