

“Let Your Light Shine”

Leadership Report

Barb Kerouac, Chair

- Are you ready? The DCCW Convention is at hand.
- Are you excited? To renew the sisterhood of DCCW.
- Are you inspired? To share and renew your spirits.
- Are you inquisitive? To learn more about Catholic Women in Utah.
- Are you blessed? Then come shine your light at the Sheraton, Apr 24-26.

It's going to be another fabulous Convention of sisterhood, spirituality, and service. Not only is the DCCW celebrating its 92nd year of existence, but the NCCW is celebrating its 100th year. How blessed we are. Come join in the fun and comradery.

The Leadership Commission is ready. The Throw-Down Challenge is again set forth to award a free registration for both A and B packages for the 2021 Convention, if your affiliate is daring enough to increase your attendees. Each affiliate that does, enters into the drawing to win. The rules are in your affiliates "Call to Convention" packet. Who will win? YOU? Give it a try, start recruiting attendees now. Don't forget sponsorships are available for those in need. (Applications in the Call to Convention packets or on the www.dccwutah.org website.)

All you creative CCW affiliates please remember to collect all your precious photos of happenings, events, service projects, fund raisers, social events, and whatever else you did, to make a beautiful poster to display at meeting hall at convention. Show off all your hard work and fun throughout the past year. CELEBRATE your affiliate.

The Leadership Commission is honored to have Emmie Gardner, CEO of Holy Cross Ministries as this year's presenter. She's a member of St Olaf's Parish, worked in the private healthcare systems in a variety of clinical and administrative roles for 30 years and is currently leading HCM into the next decade. She serves on many not-for-profit organizations' boards. Come listen to how HCM influenced leadership not only her life, but in Utah itself. You won't want to miss it.

Come, "LET YOUR LIGHT SHINE" at Convention!
