Jessie Conway

Jessie Conway was born in South Africa and moved to Cumbria when 3 years old where she now lives with her husband Steve.

Jessie has a brother and 3 sisters, her step-father is Michael Wills who has been living in Cumbria since 1993.

Michael is an Old Kimboltonian and member of the Old Kimboltonians' Lodge.

Jessie has enjoyed singing from an early age and had lessons in singing and piano from the age of 8 ultimately going to Lancaster University to study Music and English. Since leaving University Jessie has been involved in the teaching profession specialising in music and drama.

Jessie from an early age has enjoyed performing in both singing and piano but latterly has been very active in singing at shows, music festivals and private events including Kimbolton Castle and returning very frequently to the Castle to delight her increasing fan base.

Among other performance highlights Jessie was a finalist on the Keldreth Award in 2006, the winner of the Esther Croskery Performance Award in 2008 and performed in Peterborough Cathedral in 2014 along with numerous prizes at various Music Festivals in the North West of England

Jessie is a very talented performer and is always very popular with her audiences, we are delighted that she's made time in her very busy schedule to be with us today.

Despite Jessie's very busy schedule she's found time to become a mother to a very dear little boy, Joseph Henry in November 2016.
