

BOOKS ABOUT BATTLE'S HISTORY

Here we list recently published authoritative books about Battle's local history which you can buy from Battle Museum of Local History ; or from Rother Books, run by Ian Cawley. The Museum is open Monday to Saturday 10-4.30pm 1 April to 31 October. Rother Books is open 9-5 Monday to Saturday.

Authored by Adrian and Sarah Hall for the Museum, Battle at War 1939-45 describes what life was like in Battle during the last war, using previously unpublished stories and experiences. We explore the huge war effort made by those left behind. We make some surprising discoveries about the town's hitherto unknown heroes, in the town and on the battlefield. Price £8.50 .On sale at the Museum and at Rother Books.

1066 and the Battle of Hastings is authored by specialists Keith Foord and Neil Clephane-Cameron of the Battle and District Historical Society Research Group. Now in its third edition, it sets out the events which led up to the conflict and analyses the theories of what happened. Price £14. On sale at the Museum and at Rother Books.

The Brave Remembered is by George Kiloh of the Battle and District Historical Society Research Group. It describes what happened to each of the Battle men who lost their lives in the First World War 1914-19. The background of the conflict is described at each stage. A moving and detailed account of particular use to family researchers. Price £12.50 . On sale in the Museum and in Rother Books.

Building Battle Town by David and Barbara Martin with Christopher Whittick and Jane Briscoe, is a fascinating English Heritage architectural history of the town 1066-1750. There are plenty of photos and diagrams to help the generalist understand what lies behind the buildings we see as we walk through Battle today. £15. On sale from the Museum.

Edmund Langdon and His World by Adrian and Sarah Hall of the Battle and District Historical Society Research Group, unravels the mysterious life and early science of Edmund Langdon, who lived in Battle in the early seventeenth century and is the town's only recorded astronomer and astrologer.

£10 . On sale from the Museum and from Rother Books.

The Malfosse Walk by Neil Clephane Cameron of Battle and District Historical Society Research Group, examines the various possible sites around the town for the Malfosse incident, a battle after the battle on a smaller scale. Good scholarship and clear maps for enjoyable walks. £3.95. On sale from Battle Museum.

Ian Cawley (pictured) runs Rother Books in the High Street . A graduate in history from Exeter University, and a member of the Battle and District Historical Society, Ian stocks a wide range of history books, contemporary fiction and general interest. There is also a children's section. Ian offers an overnight delivery service so that books ordered say in the afternoon will probably arrive the next morning . Rother Books opens 9-5 Monday to Saturday.