Being Wise Is Not What It's About

"So they asked Him, saying, 'Teacher, but when will these things be? And what sign will there be when these things are about to take place?'" (Luke 21:7).

PERHAPS IT IS THE NATURE OF DISCIPLES TO ASK QUESTIONS. But don't we sometimes ask too many questions of God? And don't we often betray by our questions that the things we'd most like to know about are not the things He would most like to see us be interested in. Compared to the big issues that should be at the forefront of our minds, the subjects that our questions deal with are often trivial. It is a good thing God is patient with us. What do we think life in God is about anyway? Is it about satisfying our curiosity or increasing our likeness to His character? Are we seeking to become wise for our own sake or to become like Him for His sake? If we intend to seek God diligently, what we're interested in will largely determine what we end up with.

There is perhaps no better example than Abraham of a person who understood what life is about. "By faith Abraham obeyed when he was called to go out to the place which he would receive as an inheritance. And he went out, not knowing where he was going" (Hebrews 11:8). Abraham had enough confidence in the person of God that he required little in the way of information about the plans of God. When called to leave his birthplace, "he went out, not knowing where he was going." Many would have demanded to know the destination, the itinerary, the timetable, and the purpose of the journey, but this great man was content to wait and see. Abraham's overriding interest was in showing reverence to God Himself, not in figuring out what God's next move might be. As for God's next move, Abraham would wait and see.

God is not obligated to explain everything to our satisfaction. "He has made everything beautiful in its time. Also He has put eternity in their hearts, except that no one can find out the work that God does from beginning to end" (Ecclesiastes 3:11). Some things are, to be quite candid, none of our business. What God has revealed to us, however, is the truth about His character, His heart, and His values. He patiently waits for us to become more interested in these things and less interested in specific scenarios. "You're wanting a map," He says, "but I'm trying to give you a Compass."

"Have you been asking God what He is going to do? He will never tell you. God does not tell you what He is going to do — He reveals to you who He is" (Oswald Chambers).

Today's Bible Quiz Answer

b. faulty (Hebrews: 7-13)

Heb 8:7-13

7 For if there had been nothing wrong with that first covenant, no place would have been sought for another. 8 But God found fault with the people and said:

"The time is coming, declares the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah.

9 It will not be like the covenant I made with their forefathers when I took them by the hand to lead them out of Egypt, because they did not remain faithful to my covenant, and I turned away from them, declares the Lord.

10 This is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel

after that time, declares the Lord.

I will put my laws in their minds and write them on their hearts.

I will be their God, and they will be my people.

11 No longer will a man teach his neighbor, or a man his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' because they will all know me, from the least of them to the greatest.

12 For I will forgive their wickedness and will remember their sins no more."

13 By calling this covenant "new," he has made the first one obsolete; and what is obsolete and aging will soon disappear.
