AMANA
News AND NOTES

Making Up for Lost Time at CCA

As expected the Clear Creek Amana School District will be using dates already built into their academic calendar as snow closure make up days. So Friday, March 29, Friday, April 19 and Tuesday, June 4 previously scheduled as days off or vacation days, have been changed to school days by the district.

The CCA School District along with just about every school district in the area was closed for an unprecedented six school days in January due to the extreme cold weather and snow.

Amana Elementary
Family Fun Night Coming Up

Mark Saturday, February 23 on your calendar as the Amana Elementary PTO (parent teacher volunteer group) hosts family fun night from 5:30 – 8 p.m. at the Amana Elementary School.

They are asking for support from local merchants and local residents for this event which has grown to become the primary fundraiser for the Amana PTO which supports the school by providing enrichment materials, books, playground equipment, recreational equipment and field trips. A silent auction, raffle and proceeds from the supper boost fundraising efforts.

If you would like to donate toward the event contact chairperson Amy Reihman at 319-530-5238 or mail donations to the Amana Elementary School, Amana PTO, 3023 220th Trail, Amana, IA 52203. Gift cards or raffle prizes for the raffle or silent auction are very welcome.

As a mid-winter blues buster, Family Fun Night can't be beat. With inflatable bounce houses for the kids, games and activities, plus a supper in the cafeteria there is something for all ages to do and enjoy.

The Killer Family to Reunite and You are Invited!

They've started rehearsals in earnest at the Old Creamery Theatre where they are preparing for the February 14 opening of their new dinner theatre comedy. "A Killer Family Reunion" by Jim Daab.

We've caught wind of a few details to share about the dinner theatre that will be at the Price Creek Event Center, in Amana, through March 16.

First we've learned that the menu is to die for: cheddar biscuits, an Amana meats and cheeses, fresh veggies platter as appetizer; tossed green salad with dressing; prime roast beef or chicken tortellini as your main course with seasoned green beans. There will be a vegetarian option (let them know when you order your tickets) sautéed vegetables on a bed of wild rice. And for dessert, bread pudding topped with warm apple cinnamon compote. Your dinner includes choice of iced tea or lemonade, coffee and water.

Here's a bonus: adult beverages will be available, with a happy hour one hour prior to the evening shows, from 5:30 – 6:30 p.m. with ½ price select wines and beers at Price Creek.

Featuring Keegan Christopher, Katie Colletta, Robert Kemp, Sean McCall, Jackie McCall, Madeline McKeown and Kent Reynolds, this cast is busy putting the funny in dysfunctional as a less than loving family reunites just in time to send someone to their grave. But who dies and who lives starts a whole round of hilarious hijinks as the Killer family becomes embroiled in a family drama that is just plain comic. Cue the laughs as the Old Creamery Theatre team delights in just this kind of quirky, off beat comedy. What better way to beat the cold then to have a great meal and a fun show in downtown Amana?

We hear tickets are selling fast and while they have 13 performances scheduled, don't wait too long to book. Last year all 11 performances of the winter dinner theatre at Price Creek sold out in a hurry. Check the Old Creamery website or call for showtimes as there are a few matinee performances too.

Tickets are on sale right now at the Old Creamery box office, 319-622-6262. Seating is based on when the reservations are booked, but as this is an intimate setting there isn't a bad seat in the house at Price Creek in Amana.

FEATHERS IN THE WIND

Instead of a backpack there was a time when those of us who were starting junior high felt it was important that we carry a notebook. I suppose there was a better way of calling it, but if there was a better name I sure don't remember it.

It was made up of plastic that was supposed to resemble leather. There were three metal rings inside which were supposed to hold our papers, but never were used for that because we stuffed our books inside and were convinced that our assignments or papers would be torn by the time we got to school.

Then there was the that zipper around the book like structure which was meant to not only keep the books but also the papers inside this "package." Inevitably the zipper would eventually break, and we would clutch the whole thing tightly to our chests hoping that nothing would fall out.

There was always that one student who would put almost a library of books inside the zippered monstrosity tempting faith that either the zipper would break apart or rip from the plastic.

Some creative soul out decorate his/her folder by gluing stickers on the front or drawing pictures on it which would define it as theirs.

Then there was the young man who instead of using this "sophisticated" piece of school equipment would simply use a paper bag repeatedly. It became so ripped up by the end of the semester that we often would kid him and ask him if he did not think it would be a good idea to replace the bag.

He would look us straight in the eye and tell us that he figured it could last another few weeks and then proceed to carefully wrap up his bag of books and march onward to the bus.

Ironically, I never remember him dropping any of his books or papers. I often wonder think back and wonder if he was not wiser than the rest of us.

Those notebooks became a thing of the past for which I am grateful. It sure was no fun carrying all those books back and forth to school every day and wondering if everything was safe in its folds.

I just remember how tightly I would hold unto my notebook hoping that nothing would fall out and I would have to gather up everything and perhaps lose an important paper.
