Stewardship Reflection

"The kingdom of heaven may be likened to a man who sowed good seed in his field...He who sows good seed is the Son of Man, the field is the world, the good seed the children of the kingdom."

MATTHEW 13:24, 37-38

As children of God, we are all "good seeds," blessed by God with the potential to accomplish much good in the world. We fulfill God's plan when we share our talents and our financial gifts to help build God's kingdom on earth. Through our stewardship we sow "good seeds" on earth to ultimately help each other get to Heaven!

Dig deep and grow strong

Urban farming has taken the country by storm, as Indiana Public Media reports. Across the nation, people are taking back the land one acre and one project at a time. A shuttered shopping mall in Cleveland with atrium lighting is being transformed into a giant indoor farm thanks to a project called "Gardens Under Glass." The vision is to create a "retail ecovillage" with vegetarian restaurants, health food stores, garden supply stores, farmers' stalls, and recycled goods shops. In San Francisco, an abandoned on-ramp to a freeway has been transformed into an urban farming center with classes. The developers say the "main yield" is education as they teach folks how to repurpose everything from backyards to balconies as urban farming spaces. "New Roots for Refugees" is a partnership between Catholic Charities of Northeast Kansas and the Kansas City Center for Urban Agriculture. The program is currently helping 14 women to "put down new roots" by starting their own small farm businesses to grow and sell vegetables.

Urban farming has transformed inner city life for many, such as 19-year-old Treva Yarbrough of Flint, Michigan who had so little gardening experience that she ate weeds thinking they were rhubarb. "My tongue went numb. It was nasty," she said with a laugh when interviewed a few years ago. She became part of an innovative partnership in urban farming between the city of Flint and Michigan State University that has transformed abandoned lots and won international praise. This great program came out of the same city that gained international notoriety for having lead-contaminated drinking water. Just goes to show you that despite the weeds in our gardens, life thrives when we embrace the possibilities for health and growth presented to us. We can thrive despite the weeds.
