

Pamela Elzinga

Pamela Lancaster Elzinga has a degree in Education and in English from Trinity University and taught in Northeast Independent School District. She worked for 15 years in Washington D.C. and New York for the world's largest publishing company helping college professors publish textbooks and scholarly works while managing 65 managers and sales reps on the east coast. Besides elementary, middle and high school courses, Pamela has taught college students and business professionals courses in writing, publishing, resume writing, interview and editorial skills, and salesmanship. Pamela's favorite job outside of Friday School is homeschooling her two daughters Emma and Elena, running a "Connect" ministry with her husband Doug, and her small business in Interior Decorating.

You may contact her at: (210)865-3309

Email: pam_lancaster@iname.com