Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP)

Building for the Future

How does CACFP work?

CACFP reimburses participating centers and day care homes for serving nutritious meals. It is administered at the Federal level by the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The State education or health department administers CACFP in most States. State agencies approve sponsoring organizations and independent centers to operate the program on the local level. The State also monitors the program and provides guidance and assistance to assure that sponsors and centers are meeting requirements.

Sponsoring organizations play a critical role in supporting home day care providers and centers, through training, technical assistance and monitoring. All family or group day care must come into the program under a sponsoring organization. Several types of organizations are approved by the States to serve as sponsors—community action groups, nonprofit organizations and churches.

What is CACFP?

CACFP is the Child and Adult Care Food Program, a Federal program that provides healthy meals and snacks to children and adults receiving day care.

Each day, more than 2.6 million children and almost 60,000 older adults participate in CACFP. Through CACFP, participants' nutritional needs are met on a daily basis. The program plays a vital role in improving the quality of child care and making it affordable for many low-income families.

In addition to day care, CACFP helps make afterschool programs more appealing to at-risk youth. By offering nutritious and tasty snacks in programs serving low-income areas, centers can increase participation and know that youth are getting a healthy snack.

Homeless children and children from temporarily displaced families can also receive up to three meals each day through shelters that operate the program.

Who is eligible for CACFP meals?

- Children age 12 and under.
- Migrant children age 15 and younger.
- Functionally impaired adult participants or adults age 60 and older enrolled in an adult day care center
- Youths through age 18 in afterschool programs

What kinds of meals are served?

CACFP facilities follow meal patterns established by USDA.

- Breakfast consists of a serving of milk, fruits or vegetables, and grains or bread.
- Lunch and dinner require milk, grains or bread, meat or meat alternate, and two servings of fruits or vegetables.
- Snacks include two of the four components: milk, fruits/vegetables, grains/bread or meat/meat alternate.

CACFP Facilities

Many different facilities operate CACFP, all sharing the common goal of bringing nutritious meals and snacks to participants.

- Child Care Centers: Licensed or approved public or private nonprofit child care centers, Head Start programs, and some for-profit centers serve meals to large numbers of children.
- Family Child Care Homes: Small groups of children receive nonresidential day care in licensed or approved private homes.
- Afterschool Care Programs: Centers in low-income areas provide free snacks to school-aged children and youth.
- Homeless Shelters: Emergency shelters provide residential and food services to homeless children.

Adult Day Care Centers: Public, private nonprofit, and some for-profit adult day care facilities provide structured, comprehensive services to functionally impaired, nonresident adults.
