

JUSTINE LOEHLEIN

MBA, SPHR

Founder & CEO

Her Professional Mission

Justine's professional experience has been solely dedicated to the field of Human Resources. Seeing the need to make professionals and business owners understand how crucial HR becomes to the organization's competitive position, her career thus far has been devoted to demonstrating that critical connection between Human Resources and the company's overall strategic initiative.

Experience & Focus

Justine is a senior level strategic human resources professional with many years of experience in multi-state, multi-industry environments applying strategic human resource approaches that drive business results. She is an active member of SHRM and holds a senior level professional certification in Human Resources, as well as an MBA. She is currently pursuing her Masters in Human Resources and Employment Relations.

How This Helps You

This blend of experience and education has allowed her to effectively guide executives and managers into making the right choices for their staff and overall organizational goals by executing the appropriate HR performance metrics that target companies' overall objectives.

“Justine is a well educated, results driven, and customer focused business partner. She has a lot of understanding of the importance of employee motivation, retention and handling sensitive employee situations...”
