27th Sunday Ordinary Year B Mark 10:2-16

"The Pharisees approached Jesus and asked, "Is it lawful for a husband to divorce his wife?" They were testing him. He said to them in reply, "What did Moses command you?" They replied, "Moses permitted a husband to write a bill of divorce and dismiss her." But Jesus told them, "Because of the hardness of your hearts he wrote you this commandment. But from the beginning of creation, God made them male and female. For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh. So they are no longer two but one flesh. Therefore what God has joined together, no human being must separate." In the house the disciples again questioned Jesus about this. He said to them, "Whoever divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery against her; and if she divorces her husband and marries another, she commits adultery." And people were bringing children to him that he might touch them, but the disciples rebuked them. When Jesus saw this he became indignant and said to them, "Let the children come to me; do not prevent them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these. Amen, I say to you, whoever does not accept the kingdom of God like a child will not enter it." Then he embraced them and blessed them, placing his hands on them."

Excerpt from 'The Prophet' ---- "Children"

By Kahlil Gibran

And a woman who held a babe against her bosom said,
"Speak to us of Children." And the Prophet said:
"Your children are not your children alone.
They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself.
They come through you but not from you,
And though they are with you yet they belong not to you.
You may give them your love but not your thoughts,
For they have their own thoughts.
You may house their bodies but not their souls,
For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams.
You may strive to be like them,
but seek not to make them like you.
For life goes not backward nor tarries with yesterday.
You are the bows from which your children as living arrows are sent forth.
The archer sees the mark upon the path of the infinite,
and He bends you with His might that
His arrows may go swift and far.
Let your bending in the archer's hand be for gladness;
For even as He loves the arrow that flies,

Pastor's Study Desk Notes

Dear St Anthony & St Pius Families,

27th Sunday Ordinary Year B

Mark 10:2-16

"It's such a shame for us to part.....Oh, take me back to the start" Yes, that is from Coldplay's song 'The Scientist', yet it summarizes how Jesus handles the Pharisees' argument over divorce and its permissibility or not.

The Pharisees wish to set Jesus in opposition to Moses (who would go against Moses?), trying to get Jesus on record contradicting Moses. Of course, the Pharisees have no concern about marriage therapy or healing couples that are in broken marriages. No, they simply want to use the divorce issue to make Jesus look bad (discredit him). This is the tragedy that happens so often, when people further division by using real people's lives and problems to further their agendas. This gospel is about more than rescuing marriage, or arguing the social problem of divorce and the breakdown of marriage. (Please keep in mind that marriage as an institution has been under attack from the beginning, with people trying to force their will upon it, changing/redefining it to serve their wishes/desires). Jesus wants the whole human family healed and all hurtful divisions ended. Jesus knows that the Pharisees are manipulating the divorce argument for their own social gain and standing at the expense of people's pain in their broken marriages.

Since Jesus is wisdom itself and because He also manifests the heart of God to us, He superbly handles this confrontation. Jesus feels with/for every person who is currently struggling or is still processing the pain of a broken relationship in marriage. Jesus doesn't quibble about the details of divorce allowed by Moses, or the conditions needed to qualify for a new marriage. No, Jesus goes to the heart of the matter and brings up the purpose of creation-go back to the beginning. God created us in God's image, male and female (Gen 1:27), two complementary parts to unite as a whole in a partnership for life (Gen 2:24-capable of each bringing their unique genetic contributions-XX+XY-to create new life together naturally). Marriage is about more than just husband and wife, loving each other. For their love to last, they must share their love in a common mission by furthering life, physically through the begetting and raising of children-Family! Marriage as a life-long covenant provides the stability and protection for the raising of children within the shared love between husband and wife. Couples then can genuinely say with God, 'We (God and us) made this-Children and Family'. This is what Jesus is upholding by granting that, yes, Moses did allow divorce, but that Moses' exceptions were a break/deviation from what God designed originally (in Genesis). The New Covenant of Jesus wishes to restore the original intention of creation-the Unity and Indissolubility of Marriage and Mission of Family Life.

However, Jesus knows full well the reality of sorrow and suffering at times for both partners in some marriages (and unfortunately for the whole family). He gently calls for every attempt at reconciliation if possible. That is the compassionate and understanding shepherd that we have in Jesus. He wants us to find a way to work things out. But again, Jesus knows that with divorce (as REM sang--'Everybody Hurts'). The parents, the children, the extended family and friends often feel pain along with a struggling husband and wife. Everyone feels pulled to side one way or the other. Jesus intervenes to remind of us of marriage's purpose as an institution of unity. So, even if marriage fails, then Jesus calls for us to ameliorate the suffering (stop the bleeding) by not furthering the hurtful division by trying to justify the breakup either way – scapegoating completely one party except in clear cases of abuse or abandonment. So, Jesus calls out the Pharisees for using the pain of couples to further their agenda and thereby pour fuel on the flames of the heated emotions mixed in with the breakup of marriage.

Jesus wants healing and peace to be experienced by everyone. And as usual His heart is closest to the weakest and the little ones in any situation. I like to point out that immediately after this testy exchange in today's gospel between the Pharisees and Jesus (Mark 10:1-12), Jesus takes a moment to embrace and bless children (children that even the apostles were turning away and ignoring) saying, "Let the children come to me; do not prevent them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these" (Mark 10:14). Why? Jesus knows that that often in broken marriages it is the children who suffer most. So, Jesus is saying that we need to keep the love and care of children in the center of all talk and action about marriage. In fact, every institution of humanity is meant to foster care and nurturance of the young as they grow into what we all depend upon as the next generation. Who is behind us but the young, so we should do all we can to support them. And to work at preserving marriage and the stable environment it provides to our society's 'little ones'. Peace, Fr Brian
