

KATHY LOEFFEL

In April 2011, Kathy began her courageous battle with Stage 3C Ovarian Cancer. The first step was surgery, in which they removed 3 Tumors, her Omentum and did a complete Hysterectomy. They then proceeded with 24 treatments of Chemotherapy. Kathy successfully went into remission in December 2011.

Kathy's cancer had returned to her Lymph Nodes in August 2012. She underwent 16 more treatments of Chemotherapy. By April 2013 she had once again gone into remission. Unfortunately, in October 2013, the Cancer had returned again to her Lymph Nodes.

She is currently receiving Chemotherapy treatments every 28 days. Although Kathy has been through so much over the past few years, she never ceases to amaze her family with her strength and ability to overcome these obstacles.
