NRA Armed Citizen from September 2023 Magazine

A home invasion went wrong for the would-be burglars when they encountered multiple armed residents inside of a Seattle, Wash., house early on June 26, 2023.

According to police, around 3:30 a.m., several armed suspects entered the house in Seattle's Beacon Hill neighborhood. Inside, they encountered the residents, who were armed and began to exchange gunfire with the intruders. The suspects fled, and by the time police arrived on scene, they were unable to locate the alleged burglars.

Approximately 15 minutes after the robbery was reported, an individual with multiple gunshot wounds was dropped off at a local hospital. The person could not provide police with any information about how they were shot. (KATU2 News; Seattle, Wash.; 6/26/23)

Brandon Herrera, popular YouTube personality, gun designer, FFL, and all-around good guy, has declared his candidacy for Congress in the 23rd District of Texas, bringing a whole new energy to the popular phrase, "Let's Go, Brandon!!!"

Texas 23 is a massive District covering a huge swath of West Texas, running from the Western side of San Antonio to Eastern El Paso, and South to include all of Big Bend National Park. It is one of the largest and least densely populated Congressional Districts in the country and has been something of a political football over the past several decades, with Republicans and Democrats actively working to Gerrymander the District to lock it up for their side.

Whether or not Brandon Herrera is successful in his bid to replace Tony Gonzales in the Republican Primary, his candidacy will serve to help make it clear to Republicans that GunVoters are not going to give a pass to backstabbing politicians. Gonzales ran on a promise of support for and defense of Second Amendment rights, and he clearly betrayed that promise.

On June 23, a study on the underreporting of firearm ownership was published in the Journal "Social Psychiatry and Psychiatric Epidemiology." The title is "Predicting potential underreporting of firearm ownership in a nationally representative sample," hereafter referred to as the 'study.' The study indicated the number of people who refuse to report they are firearm owners, who have been called "shy" firearms owners, are about as numerous as firearms owners willing to identify themselves as such.

The full study is behind a paywall online. Allison E. Bond, the principal author of the study, was very kind and sent a copy for me to read for this article.

The study used a sample of 3500 people who were chosen to be a representative of United States adults. The number of adults in the United States at the time of the survey was about 258 million. They found 34.6% of those surveyed admitted to owning firearms, about 89 million people. The study estimated another 29.6% of respondents were likely to be "shy" gun owners. This would put the total number of gun owners in the US at roughly 64% of adults, or 166 million people.
