A Note from Rick: Markets were definitely softer at TLA this week. We had more hay to offer than we've had in quite awhile. A big portion of the hay on Tuesday was of average quality and sold accordingly. The other market that stood out to me was the slaughter cow market. Cow prices fell off sharply from the previous week. Prices from the last week of February were very strong due to the lack of cattle available throughout the month. As the weather has broke and there are a lot more cattle coming to market, prices have eased up. Hopefully once we get through this run of cattle, demand will pick back up. We are ready for our Draft Horse Auction next week and the IHHA Haflinger Auction the week after. The sun is shining and we are ready to sell some horses! See you at TLA.
