Dear Prospective Employer,

I would like to offer you my heartfelt endorsement of Ginger Browning, and provide this letter of reference on her behalf.

My wife and I were lucky enough to have Ginger in our employ for a number of years. She worked very hard for us, with honesty and integrity in all that she did. She treated our business, our budget and our home as though they were her own. We were called upon to travel quite often, and Ginger always took care of those arrangements perfectly for us, attending to all of our (often extensive) details and requirements.

Ginger assisted me in several areas pertaining to our business as well, and she had the ability to transition seamlessly between the two arenas of responsibility. She has a wide range of knowledge and experience, with the flexibility to be able to multi-task and handle many things at one time. I always knew I could trust Ginger completely with any task, or with any kind of sensitive information or confidential data. She is extremely competent, discreet, completely drama-free, and a joy to work with.

Ginger will be a great asset to you, you have my word on that issue.

Sincerely,

James H. Dupont
