CD NOTES BY SKIP TRAUTMAN, CD

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Hello everyone, and a bright, wonderful new year is my wish for you!

2017! Wow... we all made it through another one. We are, however, 6 members shorter to start out this new year. Stu and Lou moved, Don and Susie have other priorities, and now I hear Jim and Cathy also moved. Sorry to see them go, but it is what it is, and they will be missed.

Well, the rest of us are here, and that is what counts... RIGHT?

The Polar Bear was a success... Good breakfast, lots of good company, and the ride was not too bad. Cool, but not COLD!

Upcoming events are now on our website and the State website. Please be sure to check the events and update your calendar. See page 4 for a Schedule for Chapter T. We really want to see you there, wherever there is.

Saturday, January 14, is State Staff Meeting in Stockton. Meeting starts at 10:00. We will be leaving at 8:00 from Les Schwab. Let us know if you're going, because they will need a head count, and we need to know if you're going so nobody gets left behind. Meeting agenda is on page 3

Teri and I are back to work after a week's vacation, and already looking forward to July and Gold Rush.

Hope to see you somewhere... soon!

Till next time, TTFN

Blonde on the Sun

A Russian, an American, and a blonde were talking one day.

The Russian said, "We were the first in space!"

The American said, "Well we were the first to walk on the moon!"

The Blonde said, "So What! We're going to be the first to walk on the sun!"

The Russian and the American looked at each other and scratched their heads. "You can't land on the sun, you idiot! You'll burn up!" said the Russian.

To which the blonde replied, "We're not stupid, you know. We're going at night!"

The Fire

A woman was walking through the lobby of an office building to go outside and smoke. She was carrying a butane lighter which was leaking onto her sleeve. She was in a hurry to light up, and it was quite windy, so she started to light her cigarette just before she walked out the door.

Suddenly her sleeve caught fire, and she started to panic, waving her arm wildly to put it out. The security guard spotted the emergency and quickly ran over with a wet towel to put out the fire before it actually caused damage and burned her arm. Due to his quick action, the sleeve was only singed a bit.

The guard noted that it was illegal to smoke in the building, by city ordinance, and had the woman arrested.

The charge? Possession of an illegal fire-arm.

Editor's note: When I was having so much trouble with my computer, I lost some of my "Just for 'Fun" pieces. So anyone want to share a few?

Spelling

A kindergartner was practicing his spelling with magnetic letters on the refrigerator. Cat, dog, dad, and mom had been proudly displayed for all to see.

One morning while getting ready to go, he bounded into the room with outstretched arms. In his hands were the magnetic letters G-O-D. "Look what I spelled, mom," with a sweetly innocent, proud smile on his face.

"That's wonderful!" his mom praised him. "Now go put them on the refrigerator so Daddy can see them when he comes home tonight. Mom thought happily that the Catholic education certainly was having an effect.

Just then a small voice called from the kitchen, "Hey, mom, how do you spell 'zilla'?"

Little Old Lady in a Hotel Room

A little old lady in a hotel room called the desk to complain about a naked man looking through the window at her.

"Ma'am," the desk clerk said, "you're on the 5th floor. How on earth could anyone be looking at you from outside the building.?"

The little old lady insisted, so the desk clerk went to her suite to check it out. She could see across the way that there indeed was a man who without a shirt. "Ma'am, he's not wearing a shirt, that's true. But that doesn't mean he's naked."

With that the little old lady shouted, "The dresser! The dresser! Jump up onto the dresser!"
