In 2019, this popular professional development course is being offered in the beautiful city of Lisbon, Portugal. The course gives participants the exciting opportunity to see clinical social work—its theory, practice, and diversity—in a larger international arena, a vantage point that has become increasingly more important in our current global society. A large focus of the program will be on current social issues in Portugal and how these are being addressed by the professional social work community.

The classroom setting is transformed to the field where participants will visit a variety of clinical programs and dialogue on an informal level with clinical practitioners. The program includes site visits to several unique treatment programs in Lisbon such as an arts program for older adults, and a community-based youth services program, among others. The program will begin with a guided tour of Lisbon and will also include a day trip to Sintra and Cascais on the beautiful Portuguese coast. Ample time will be provided throughout the week for independent sightseeing, as well.

Course participants are comfortably housed in single rooms in a lovely hotel, which includes a full breakfast and is conveniently located in Lisbon, near the Marques de Pombal Square. Companions are welcome and will be invited to participate in all program events except visits to clinical programs.

The program is led by Dina Wilke, PhD, MSW, Professor at the Florida State University College of Social Work in partnership with the Florida Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers.

PROGRAM FEE: The program fee of $2,100 includes 15 contact hours; hotel room (single occupancy with private bath); daily breakfast; tour of Lisbon; local transport passes for the week; program dinner; and day trip to Sintra and Cascais.
