KELLI THOUVENELL & SAGEY STORM...

When Kelli ventured out of state to the VGBRA, she had a feeling Sagey Storm had the potential to win....“Myra loves to run, however at this point in her life it hinders her as much as helps her. She doesn't cheat and has a round free way of turning. I have been to the VGBRA before and knew the set up and knew that there are a lot of hit barrels. I figured my fast, free honest horse had a great chance of keeping the barrels up and clocking. It was a gamble and it paid off.”

Her first run was a little rough; she isn't used to that straight of an approach to the first barrel and stepped off just a little. She ran free to the second but took a little stutter step around it; her third barrel was great and she just wrapped herself around it.

Her second run she was more prepared for the approach and turned it well, which gave her a better setup for the second. She wrapped the second barrel and went to rate off at the third and lost her backend and stepped off a bit. She recovered quickly and ran home. I was very proud that she slowed down and stopped at the closed gate. This was her first experience with a closed gate.

SAGEY STORM was raised in Ogden, UT, by Randy Higginson. Her mother was a great race-horse-producing mare so they tried to run her at two and then again at three. She had some quirks and issues and just didn't want to be a race horse. In the fall of 2014 Sue Smith purchased her off the track, bragging about how good she moved and how nice her mother was and that Winners Version was really producing. One month later and with several friend strings getting pulled and begging, Sue sold her to me. She came with a rope halter and her own set of hobbles. We gave her the barn name “Myra” after the Looney Tunes character Elmyra because she had to shadow and touch every horse she was turned out with. She was like a magnet and would maul any horse that would let her get close.

The first month was just learning to be tied up without two-legged digging and/or setting back. She spent the better part of her days being tied to a tree. She was track broke and spooky so the first dozen rides were pretty unpleasant. Once she started settling down and feeling like she had a home, she started riding better with only a few instances of spooking, followed by bucking, then bolting. She always liked going around the barrels; it was easy for her. She has to work on patience every day, whether it's not leaving a barrel too soon or standing at the trailer or waiting her turn in line.

Myra is very talented but she is still green. If they would let me run her as a 7 yr old futurity horse I would love that. She has come along leaps and bounds but I tell everyone to watch out for her when she turns nine. I think she needs more time just to gain confidence in herself and colorful surroundings. She has spent time around cattle, loud bangs, little kids...she is even stroller broke; but still terrified of stampeding goats and moving tractors.

Moving forward in 2016 I'm going to pick and choose places to run her that will make her better, mind and body. I believe keeping her in smaller buildings where she can't use all her speed will help her in the long run.

Kelli is married to Ethen Thouvenell, a 2x NFR steer wrestler. Kelli is also a 2x NFR qualifier and ‘way back when’ was the CNFR Women's All Around and Goat Tying Champion. They have a 2-1/2 yr old son name Nash.

Ethen and Kelli are both sponsored by 5 Star Pads and Renew Gold.
