They are given a Custom Color Match to your hair from scalp to ends, including threading.

BBolder Custom Extensions are then given a Keratin Treatment and a Double Sealant on the seam for a no-shed durability.

They are Custom Cut and styled to your head and hair, with each strip marked for placement.

Package Extensions

One of the biggest problems with Package Extensions is one of five factors, 1) The color chosen has an extreme contrast at the scalp, 2) The weight of the extensions and the weight of your hair do not match, 3) They are not cut to your hairstyle, 4) Different brands can range from a heavy single strip, to four strips, to eight strips, with varying quality, and 5) Hair Extensions are non-returnable and non-refundable, with most basic extensions ranging from $200-$500+ online and in-store.

Color is a huge factor and rarely do clients have a simple single haircolor. Chances are, you've got a shadow root of darker haircolor, with highlights, balayage, or an ombre, making your ends considerably lighter.

Any one of these factors can be a very costly mistake with money that you could've used towards Professional Custom Extensions.

Once your purchase has been made and you ask your hairdresser to help customize your Package Extensions for you, they are already at an extreme disadvantage, if they are even able to work on them at all. A waiver must be signed before any work will be done on your Package Extensions due to variations of quality through many hair extension companies.

Professional Customizations on your Package Extensions and Custom Extensions are charged by the service like it would be on any client.

Hopefully you've been given enough information to make good choices concerning your hair extensions! So let's get on with how to maintain them....

Maintenance

Hair Extensions can become dry and tangled if not taken care of properly. But the steps for care are very easy!

First, your extensions should be on a hair hanger, hair caddy, or inside a breathable carrier, to keep them from tangling. Hair hangers and holders will help aid in washing and styling as well.

Second, a large widetooth comb is best for combing out tangles and will not pull hair out of the weft as easily as a smaller comb or brush. If necessary, you can use a wet brush.

Third, you will need a shine serum to keep the hair feeling buttery soft. This will help prevent tangles and split ends.

And lastly, try not to use too much hairspray on your extensions, it will dry them out and force you to wash them more frequently. Keep hairspray around your face or on the top of your hair, and away from your extensions!
