Accompanied by the Saints and Accompanying the Dead

In the Church's faithful celebration on earth of Christ's sacraments of salvation, we are aware of being in communion with the Saints, whose memory we venerate, hoping for some share and fellowship with them and "consoled by the promise of immortality to come." This is so especially true of the Eucharist, "in which we proclaim that Christ has died and risen, and will come again." It is "a pledge of the future glory in which our bodies too will be glorified. Celebrating the memorial of our salvation strengthens our hope in the resurrection of the body and in the possibility of meeting once again, face to face, those 'who have gone before us with the sign of faith'. Our prayer for them and for ourselves is that through the pervading power of the Eucharist, once purified, we may reach "the eternal dwelling made ready" in heaven and "come to the beatific vision of God. A rediscovery of the eschatological dimension inherent in the Eucharist, celebrated and adored, will help sustain us on our journey and comfort us in the hope of glory (cf. Rom 5:2; Tit 2:13)."
