This policy establishes how JP Labs will use information we gather about you from your visit to our website.

If you visit a JP Labs site:

D.1 To read or download information:

We may collect and store information for statistical purposes. For example, we may count the number of visitors to the different pages of our web site to help make them more useful to visitors. This information does not identify you personally. We automatically collect and store only the following information about your visit:

1. The Internet domain (for example, "xcompany.com" if you use a private Internet access account, or "yourschool.edu" if you connect from a university's domain) and IP address (an IP address is a number that is automatically assigned to your computer whenever you are surfing the web) from which you access our web site;
2. The type of browser and operating system used to access our site;
3. The date and time you access our site;
4. The pages you visit; and
5. If you visited this JP Labs web site from a link on another web site, the address of that web site.

Similar information is gathered for anonymous FTP, remote account login, or for other comparable types of connections.

The information that you provide on a JP Labs web site will be used only for its intended purpose, except as required by law or if pertinent to judicial or governmental investigations or proceedings.

D.2 To send us an E-mail:

By sending us an electronic mail (e-mail) message, the requester may be sending us personal information such as your name, address, and e-mail address. We may store your name, address, and e-mail address of the requester in order to respond to your request or otherwise resolve the subject matter of the e-mail. Under limited circumstances, we may use or may be required by law to disclose the information you submit.

Remember that e-mail is not necessarily secure against interception. If your communication is very sensitive, or includes personal information like your Social Security number, you might want to send it by postal mail instead.

D.3 Specific Information:

Our web site asks visitors who request specific information to fill out a form. Information collected at web sites through questionnaires, feedback forms, or other means, enables us to determine visitors' interests, with the goal of providing better service to our customers.
