HDR was asked to program, master plan and design a 16-bed Inpatient Care Facility with adjoining Office Building with a “lodge” like appearance to fit into an infill site in Barrington Illinois. A unique “Y” shape was adopted for the patient wings so that the entire building appears to be much smaller than it actually is. The site is between an upscale retirement community, a library, and a public park making the walkways and grounds an important part of the design. A healing garden was designed to help separate the patients from a public roadway. Future expansion for the office building will allow an eventual 60,000 SF facility.
