

Minister Lillian Jones

MiniMinister Lillian Jones is a native of Marengo County. She graduated from Marengo County Training School located in Thomaston, Alabama. After graduating from high school, she attended Livingston University in Livingston, Alabama and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in the field of education. In 1983, Minister Jones earned a Master of Education degree from Livingston University.

Minister Jones taught in the Sumter County Public School District for 25 years. After retirement, she taught in the Meridian Public School District for a number of years.

In 1997, Minister Jones humbly submitted to and accepted the call of God on her life. In 1998, she was presented a license to preach the gospel under the leadership of Pastor Tyrone Thomas. In 1998, Minister Jones united with True Vine Fellowship Full Gospel Church, York, Alabama. She was ordained to preach the gospel in 1999 under the leadership of Bishop Willie and Pastor Barbara Davis. For the past fourteen years, Minister Jones has had the opportunity to walk in and fulfill her God given purpose of proclaiming the gospel of Jesus Christ. Minister Jones has a heart for the lost and a desire to empower God's people to develop a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. She also reaches out to encourage hurting women, especially those who are incarcerated. She serves faithfully in the nursing home ministry and the Girl's/Young Ladies Mentoring Ministry.

Minister Jones resides in Livingston, Alabama and is married to Deacon Willie Jones. She has three children and two wonderful grandchildren.

