The Norfolk City Blues Rugby Club is in the process of establishing a self-funded high school aged rugby program based out of Norfolk, VA that is meant to service the greater Tidewater region. We have decided to expand the club into a larger reaching enterprise and look to build an organization that allows its players to start in high school, allowing for more opportunities to succeed. We promote a team atmosphere where each player adds value to the organization. The leadership of the team strives to build a cohesive program from the most experienced to the most junior member, both on and off the pitch.

We are proud of our achievements, our culture and the hard work many have contributed to make this team continue on a path of success. The coaching staff and senior player leadership is not only out there to make these young people better rugby players, but better individuals as well. The team has participated by donating their time to participate annually in Breast Cancer Awareness events, Toys for Tots fund raisers, and numerous volunteer programs and opportunities. This atmosphere of volunteerism and giving back to the community is a part of the core values instilled in the team.

There are however many expenses connected with running and building a youth program. We participate in many fundraisers to help offset the costs, but there are a lot of administrative costs that accumulate from the costs of registering our team each year, new jerseys, shorts and socks, equipment & field rental for training, referees, trainers, lodging and travel. These costs individually are small, but amount to quite a bit over the course of a season.

We've had much success and bring a great deal of spectator traffic and positive attention to the Norfolk community through our program. We are in the process of growing our program and establishing a youth team is an important step in growing the sport. As rugby is one of the fastest growing sports in the USA and will be apart of the Rio 2016 Olympics. All sponsors and supporters that join the Blues family become a part of this success and an important part of Rugby Union in not only Hampton Roads, but throughout the East Coast.
