Your Career in Sheet Metal

The sheet metal industry needs highly skilled and motivated workers. Through courses offered by ITI's training centers, you can get the high quality education and training designed to give you a rewarding career. As an apprentice, you participate in both on-the-job training and classroom study, allowing you to practical experience while learning the technical aspects of the industry. Is a career in sheet metal right for you? Keep reading to learn more or contact your local JATC today.

Being an Apprentice

When you enter an apprenticeship, you agree to work in an on-the-job training program and attend specialized classes for between four and five years. As an apprentice, you:

- Earn a good salary while learning your trade – a salary that increases as your skills and knowledge increase
- Pay little to no tuition costs or fees
- Receive books and other educational material free of charge
- Learn from instructors who have hands-on experience in the sheet metal industry
- Put everything you learn to work right away—your career begins with your apprenticeship
- Graduate without student loan debt

Qualifications to be an Apprentice

As with any other field, there are some basic requirements for a career in the sheet metal industry. You'll need a high school or GED diploma, and in some parts of the U.S. and Canada, you might have to take a written exam or complete a personal interview. Other skills needed include:

- Good physical condition
- Above average mechanical and math skills
- Good eye-to-hand coordination
- Understanding spatial relationships
- Understanding how patterns are used to create metal forms
- Excellent work and study habits
- Ability to work well in teams
- Solid reasoning skills
- Problem solving capability
- Enjoy working with your hands
- Reliable and responsible

Once you complete your core curriculum, you can continue to learn and specialize in one or more areas. These specialized areas include:

- Heating Ventilating and Air Conditioning (HVAC)
- Architectural Sheet Metal
- Detailing
- Service and Refrigeration
- Testing Adjusting and Balancing (TAB)
- Residential Heating Ventilating and Air Conditioning (HVAC)
- Sign Industry
- Industrial Welding
- Roofing

Why Join The Union? - As an apprentice you will become a member of your local union. Working people join unions so that they can voice their concerns about the work they do. Unions work to improve conditions for workers in these areas like pay, safety, benefits and working conditions. Unions are also democratic organizations and officers are elected by members. These officers negotiate contracts with the owners of a company on behalf of the workers.

Union workers earn better wages and benefits than nonunion workers. Compared with nonunion workers, a greater percentage of union members have guaranteed pensions and health insurance benefits.

Here are some benefits you can expect from your union membership:

- Life and health insurance programs
- A pension plan
- A vacation program
- A journeyman card*
- An exceptional training program
- Industry publications and information
- A written guarantee that tells contractors that you will work for a professional wage
- Representation on job disputes
- Multitude of career paths
- Acceptance into a strong, union brother- and sisterhood

* Upon attaining journeyman status (This card is recognized internationally.)
