Summary: On Thursday Dec 5 at 6:30PM in Scheller College of Business room 101, we have invited the President of the Community Consulting Teams of Atlanta (<http://www.cctatlanta.org>) to come speak to us about joining their teams. CCT Atlanta is a nonprofit organization that puts together volunteer teams of experienced business professionals to help nonprofit and public sector organizations address strategic management challenges.

They are very interested in having PhD2Consulting Club members join their teams. This is an amazing opportunity to gain real world consulting experience by working on strategic management problems with business professionals. Many of the professionals on their teams are current or past management consultants. The time commitment is only around 2 hours per week.

The deadline for submitting applications to CCT Atlanta is December 21st. I encourage all of you to attend this information session and learn about an opportunity to gain valuable business experience!
