The original movie was focused on a college setting, the new film zeroes in on a case involving a high school teacher discussing Jesus in her classroom. Ms. Wesley gets into trouble in her history class when she responds to a student's question and compares the teachings of Jesus Christ with those of Mahatma Gandhi and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. That leads to the school demanding she apologize for violating the policy supporting the strict separation of church and state. When she refuses, a civil rights group convinces the student's parents to sue Wesley in a landmark case designed to prove that there's no historical proof Christ lived. Come join us Sunday, April 3, at the Abingdon Cinemall. The bus will leave just after the morning service. You will need money for fast food and $5 for the movie. We should be back around 6PM.

Scripture Spotlight

“And we know that God causes everything to work together for the good of those who love God and are called according to His purpose for them.”

Romans 8:28

MINISTRY TRAINING

One Wednesday night a month, we will be training our church to minister to others throughout the community and world. The first night of training was held in March. One group trained to do balloon animals, another visited the nursing home, and another learned sign language. We had a great time and learned a lot. The next training will be on Wednesday, April 13, from 7:00PM-8:00PM in the Youth Center. The van will leave around 6:50 for the nursing home. Sign Language and Puppets will be held in the Youth Center. Come join us and learn a skill to reach others for the Lord.

ENTERTAINMENT SPOTLIGHT

Lauren Daigle: How can it be

Lauren Daigle: How Can It Be is fresh and full of life, and it doesn't skimp on the theology. From the beginning notes of "First" to the final chord of "Once And For All," I was transfixed by two things: the songs and Jesus. The music sweeps you up, and then places your focus squarely where it belongs: on the King of Kings. Overarching themes include trials, faith, worship, and seeking God's face before seeking His hand: "Before I bring my needs, / I'll bring my heart," as "First" says.
