

IMPORTANT NOTICE

Washington Stay-at-Home Order

The state of Washington on Monday issued a stay at home order effective immediately.

The order says Washingtonians must stay at home except for essential activity, which includes grocery shopping, doctor appointments and essential work duty, Inslee said. People can still go outside for a walk, a bike ride or to garden, but they must remain six feet away from others at all times.

The stay-at-home order was issued Monday night and will remain in place through April 6.

Be advised that Chicago Title has been deemed an “essential business” and will remain in service following recommended health and safety recommendations.
