

Janice Winchester
Churchill Brown

Janice Winchester, born in Georgia, has spent most of her career in the legal field. Janice has more than 17 years in legal marketing and business development. In her legal marketing and business development role Janice traveled a lot, but considered it a rewarding career developing and training more than 150 national law firms. Later, she worked in the Cobb County District Attorney's Office in the Crimes Against Persons/Crimes Against Children unit. She worked in the courtroom with judges, prosecutors, and criminal defense attorneys in seven different courtrooms. In addition, she was part of a Crisis Response Team that responded to crime scenes. She worked with victims of crimes or their families helping them put their lives back together.

When Janice left the courthouse, she was quickly snapped up by Georgia's largest DUI law firm, headed by national DUI expert, William "Bubba" Head. She managed that office and developed systems that garnered her national attention. That attention launched her into legal marketing where she had the opportunity to systematize and develop more than 150+ law firms across the nation.

Buying, selling and staging homes has always been a passionate hobby for Janice, so when she moved to Oklahoma and needed a career change, real estate was a natural fit. Helping families connect with the home they love is more than selling a home, "I feel that I'm in the family enrichment business because there it's such a great feeling helping to start a home," she said. Janice adds, "I know the importance of a home- it's where families are created, birthdays and holidays are celebrated. It's our refuge at the end of the day and sometimes, where retirement begins."

Throughout her varied careers, Janice has always been about public service. To her, it is all about helping others. "I couldn't have gotten where I am today without the gracious help of others. I want to pay it forward daily." Janice is the proud mother of three children.

Kayla D. Blount
Liberty Mutual

Kayla D. Blount a proud graduate of UCO, began her career with Liberty Mutual Insurance in 2007. Her team provides clients with professional guidance and advice on the types of insurance they need to protect the assets they've worked so hard to obtain. Protection not only includes their homes, autos and toys, but security to provide financial assistance after the death of a loved one with Life Insurance.

Kayla thoroughly enjoys meeting and visiting with her clients. Kayla understands that insurance is not a one size fits all solution and everyone has different needs and priorities. Listening closely to her clients helps ensure their needs are met, creates an opportunity to build lifelong relationships and learn more about the community she serves. Kayla feels blessed to work at Liberty Mutual. Through hard work, dedication, genuine care for clients and long hours, Kayla and her team have produced great results and are recognized as national top producers and the recipients of numerous awards.

Outside of work Kayla is a member of the Edmond Summit Rotary and currently serves on the Board as a past president. Kayla and her team participate in Mobile Meals, volunteer at the Hope Center and read to elementary students. In addition, Kayla currently sits on the Board of Directors for Citizens Caring for Children and previously held the position of Board Chair. "This organization keeps me going due to the everyday blessings of the children. If you speak to any of our staff or volunteers, the blessings we receive from serving far outweighs what we give," said Kayla.

Memberships include Oklahoma County Senior Nutrition Program Foundation, the National Federation of Republican Women, the Oklahoma Federation of Republican Women, and Red State Republican Women. Kayla has been married to her 'fabulous' husband, Jeff, for over 10 years! They love sports, traveling and spending time with their 19 nieces and nephews. Kayla and Jeff are members of Life Church.tv and spends her spare time with her other passion, gardening.

Keri Little
Independent Mary Kay
Sales Director

Keri Little is an Independent Mary Kay Sales Director that is passionate about helping other women. After a divorce from a less than ideal marriage, and the sudden death of her second husband, Keri found herself a single mom responsible for five children. For eight and a half years Keri took some college classes and owned a few businesses. Independent and determined to make it on her own, Keri often work three jobs instead of opting for government assistance.

Life had certainly thrown Keri some unexpected curve balls, however, it was during these trying times that she learned a lot about herself and how her life experiences could be used to help other women see their worth in the eyes of Christ. Through all of her struggles, Keri held fast to her faith in Christ, even on the days when she wondered if He was listening to her prayers and would keep true to His direction and word.

Keri believes every woman has the right to claim and step into their God-given purpose and receiving all He has for them. Every time Keri meets with a client, she considers it an opportunity to lift up, enrich and remind women that they can still have the desires of their heart. For Keri, growing up doesn't mean giving up your dreams. It's simply a matter of never losing faith and stepping into God's plan when the opportunity knocks.

Today, Keri is happily married to her dream husband of seven years. In addition to her Mary Kay business, together they own a successful business in Norman. Keri is having the time of her life and she and her husband stay busy and entertained with their blended family of eight children and eight grandchildren.

While there were plenty of dark days, Keri continues to rejoice in God's grace, enjoys each day, and doesn't sweat the small stuff.

Deborah (Deb) Felice
Attorney/Mediator

Deborah (Deb) R. Felice is an attorney who practiced family law in Tulsa for three years before then devoting most of her career to law school administration and law student counseling. For nine years, Deborah served as the first female dean of students at University of Tulsa College of Law. She was then recruited to serve as dean of students and to assist with the development of what was then a young law school, Texas Wesleyan (now Texas A&M) School of Law. She was part of a team who ultimately secured full American Bar Association approval for that law school in 1999.

In 2000, Deborah moved back to her home state where she served as dean of students at Oklahoma City University School of Law for 13 years. In 2012, her accomplishments were recognized nationally when the Association of American Law Schools (AALS) Section on Law Student Services presented her with its annual award in recognition of excellence in the provision of services to law students.

In recent years, Deborah has focused her attention on two specific areas of personal interest: mediation of all types of disputes and service as the Guardian ad Litem in family law matters.

As a peacemaker, Deborah welcomes the challenge of assisting clients in settling their family law and other issues through mediation. As a Guardian ad Litem, she represents the best interests of children by thoroughly investigating the children's life situation, prepares a lengthy summary of findings, and makes recommendations to the Court in family law cases.

Deborah has always had a heart for helping others make their lives better and strives to do just that. She is part of the OKC Downtown Exchange Club (focused on children's issues) where she serves as current board member and past president and serves as deacon team leader at her church. In addition, she is a Master's level member of the Ruth Bader Ginsburg Inn of Court.

Deborah is originally from Tulsa, Oklahoma. She earned her bachelor of arts degree in Social Work and Counseling at University of Oklahoma and her Juris Doctorate degree (JD) from the University of Tulsa College of Law.

Not according to any plan she originally had for her life, Deborah has been both divorced and widowed, as well as a single mom for over ten years. For eight years she has been married to Mike Felice and enjoys a blended family of two biological children and three stepchildren whom she also calls her own.

Deborah has a lifelong love of travel and one other love, horses/horseback riding.

Contact Deborah at (405) 822-3324 or Felicedeb@gmail.com.

Rhonda Flint
Wellness Educator
Young Living Essential Oils

Rhonda Flint is a 17-year veteran homeschool mom with three grown children, two of whom are profoundly deaf. She started her health journey 12 years ago by educating herself on the harmful food products that she was feeding her family on a daily basis. Her children were plagued by ailments such as asthma, severe allergies, eczema, acid reflux, carpal tunnel and more. Reading labels became a necessary way of life along with eradicating the boxed, canned and processed foods that used to line her pantry. After seeing the immense change in her family's health, she sought out other ways to bring health and wellness to her family while reducing the toxic western meds that were being ingested by her family.

Rhonda has been a Wellness Educator with Young Living Essential Oils since 2011 and is also certified in Raindrop Technique and Emotional Release. Her mission in life is simple: she aims to be a bridge. Not only does she believe that essential oils are the bridge to natural living but she also desires to help others realize how simple it is to use these natural products in their everyday lives to stay above the wellness line.

Rhonda and her family are the healthiest they have ever been even though they are the oldest they have ever been!
