

Ken Elliot, Maintenance Supervisor

Thunder Creek Pork

Ken Elliot is currently the Maintenance Supervisor for Thunder Creek Pork in Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan. In this position, he manages a diverse maintenance team that includes millwrights, electricians, welders, steam engineers, and coordination with the planning department. Ken supervises planning and scheduling of work, preparing and implementing the annual budget, and ensuring that OHS, quality assurance, and food safety standards are met. Since 2018, he has also worked closely with outside consultants on a Lean Six Sigma process improvement project in his department.

By background, Ken is a Red Seal journeyman millwright with 30 years of experience in maintenance work in industries including mining, milling, power generation, and food processing. His work has taken him from 100 feet in the air to 3000 feet below ground, while always playing a leadership role whether as supervisor, foreman, lead hand, or OHS co-chair. Ken also served as Vice President of a union local, gaining perspective on the front line.
