

Susan Kashmiri

Born and raised in New Mexico, I am currently living in Southern California. Although I work full time in the Defense and Space Industry, art has always been my passion. Before I started painting, I was doing mainly fabric arts and clothing design. I started painting in 2015 when I had some down time at work. I am self-taught and was quite intimidated by the brush at first, but as soon as the paint hit the canvas it was love at first brush stroke. I have not been able to put the brush down since.

Acrylics and Oils have been my mediums of choice thus far. Eventually I would like to try my hand at watercolors. Being new to the painting world, I have only had a few of my pieces published. Military Experience and the Arts published three of my works in 2016 and 2017 and Red Bull Rising published one of my works in 2017. I have also had one of my Abstract works on display in a MOMA student art exhibition in New York In January of 2018.

My current full-time job involves creating special protective eyewear for Air Force and Naval pilots. That being said, I am very happy to be a part of this benefit fundraiser for the Angle Flight Organization.
