Presidents Message

2017 has been an eventful year for the society. I would like to thank all my board members for their untiring efforts and giving their valuable time to help our society grow. We have had a huge interest in membership and the board has decided to make membership free to all to be inclusive and help disseminate knowledge to one and all. We had an excellent annual meeting at Southampton in November, 2017. We would like to thank Southampton University hospital in hosting the meeting and all the organising committee members especially Prof Ying Cheong and Dr Sameer Umraniyar.

New Editorial Board Members

I am pleased inform that we have now have an editorial board consisting of Dr Ritu Rana and Dr Parijat Bhattacharjee. The Editorial board has just published its second newsletter. There is a brief update of clinical topics of interest by Dr Ritu Rana. Dr Parijat Bhattacharjee has written a report of our meeting at Southampton. The top 5 abstracts have been published in the newsletter.

Website changes

ISRSFT team are making changes to our website and hopefully in the near future we will have an interactive forum. Suggestions from members are always welcome please write to our administrator Joanna Villalard via email jvillalard@conceptfertility.com.

Annual Meeting 2018 at Derby

We have organised an exciting meeting on the 15th and 16th of November this year at Derby, UK. We look forward to hearing from international experts during our two-day meeting. I am excited by the inclusion lectures on uterine transplant and uterine tract malformations in this years meeting. For the first time we have also included workshops in hysteroscopy, laparoscopy and ultrasound for the young trainees and clinicians who may be interested in improving their skills. This provides an opportunity for hands on experience and also to meet and interact with the experts in this field. This will make the ISRSFT annual meeting an excellent educational opportunity and a must attend for all reproductive surgeons and clinicians with interest in reproductive medicine. I would like all of you to encourage trainees and practicing clinicians to come to the meeting.

I on behalf of the executive board like to thank and welcome our new members and those who have been supporting this society achieving our goal to disseminate clinical knowledge, skills and encourage research in the field of reproductive surgery and fallopian tube.

With best wishes

Ertan Saridoğan
