Stacey Thacker founded Art Totality, LLC in April of 2009 because of her love for the arts, family, friends and community. Since Stacey was very little she has had an interest and passion for the arts; drawing, theater, dance, and poetry to mention a few. Even though her career path ended up taking a different route, she continued to learn the different art platforms.

With Art Totality, she found a way to integrate her degrees with her passion. At Indiana State University (ISU) Stacey received her BS degree in psychology and her MS degree in Human Resource Development. Stacey markets and designs the instructional materials that are used for each event by utilizing her skills from her degrees and as a corporate trainer.

Featured artists are used to guide and instruct in their field of expertise which offers a specialized learning experience for families and friends. A "team building" approach is used when families and friends come together to create art projects during an event. The entire group dynamic plays an intricate role in creating the project and the fun. It is a memory that will last a lifetime!

Essentially, Art Totality is about spending precious time creating fun memories with people you love being around, family and friends.

Here is a list of some of the past events that were hosted by Art Totality:
