As a follow-up to my previous email, I want to clarify that when I saw FAM [REDACTED] and SAIC Donzanti in the mat room or exiting the mat room between 4-5:00 a.m., it was clear to me that they were not there for training purposes or to participate in an exercise regimen; rather, they were engaging in sexual relations. Furthermore, they were seen "making out" at an Anaheim Angels baseball game (they have since changed their name to the Los Angeles Angels of Anaheim) by a FAM team during a team get-together (I believe it was Team 5).

Field Office were required to attend Firearms/Defensive Measures Training on a bi-weekly basis as well as a Quarterly Fitness Assessment. To the best of my recollection, I never saw FAM [REDACTED] attend the required training.

On several occasions I saw FAM [REDACTED] and Special Agent in Charge (SAIC) Frank Donzanti exiting the downstairs training area (also known as the Mat Room) in various stages of undress.

It is also my understanding that FAM [REDACTED] was removed from her position as a FAM after failing to successfully achieve a qualifying score on the FAM Tactical Pistol Course (TPC) during her initial training and was subsequently rehired after the standards were lowered.

Bob,

Good talking to you today.

Although it seems like ancient history, I do remember that it was very strange that REDACTED was given a PCS move to DC to run the PDA program without an announcement or solicitation for any interested FAMS to apply.

Pretty much everyone at LAFO, definitely all of the training staff, knew that she was involved in an affair with SAC Donzanti. It was the joke of the office and I remember the guys who ran the front desk saying that they were embarrassed when Donzanti's wife would stop by and they would have to look her in the eye while feeling sorry for her.

The whole REDACTED issue was just a clown show. She had no business even being there after failing the initial training, suing to get the job and then being unable and unwilling to do it. I don't ever remember her covering a flight or working anything other than M-F day shift in the office.

She left for DC when I took over Firearms training so I never saw her on the range. She never trained with my squad before that so I never saw her in training either.

Have your attorney call me if I can be of help.

John,

One of the charges alleges that I harassed then-Los Angeles Field Office (LAFO) Federal Air Marshal REDACTED in a now closed Facebook Secret Group [<https://www.eff.org/deeplinks/2017/06/understanding-public-closed-and-secret-facebook-groups>] titled "Flying Pigs."

Would you please tell me whether or not FAM REDACTED was non-competitively selected to be the Palm Tungsten W Datamaxx Group LAFO Personal Data Assistant cellular smartphone trainer which was a Ground Based Assignment?

Do you remember how flying LAFO FAMS reacted to her selection given the fact Ms. REDACTED had been once fired for failing the Federal Air Marshal Service (FAMS) academy, and had her firearm again revoked for failing the FAMS academy after her reinstatement?

Would you please tell me what your current title and employer is?

Appreciatively,
Robert

Subject: RE: FAM [REDACTED] qualifications for transfer to HQ's OTD
To: <rjmaclean@gmail.com>

She was leaving LAFO as I was coming into Training so I never had an opportunity to see her in training, on the range or in the mat room. I remember remarking that I had never seen or heard of any vacancy announcement when she took the job in DC and I would have liked the opportunity to compete for it also. When I heard that one of the qualifications for the position was sleeping with the SAC, I suddenly lost interest. As I recall, but you know how underhanded these pukes are, there was no official vacancy announcement for her position. You should FOIA the application list.

Thanks for doing the signcuttin on [REDACTED]

Hey [REDACTED]

Since you were a member of the training staff at the LA office, do you know about FAM [REDACTED] qualifications and skills that may or may not have warranted her winning this position and her transfer to the elite Office of Training & Development at FAMS headquarters in northern Virginia? I would assume that such a career-enhancing position would have been very coveted among all training FAMS staff through the country.

Was the position announced internally or externally? Do you know of any other FAMS that were interviewed or made the final list?

Again, thank you very much for responding.

Best,

No, it was immediately understood among us instructors on staff that she won the position and was sent to DC in order to get away from D. No special quals of any type. She was known to be--arguably--our most incompetent FAM.

Standing sushi-dinner dates Donzantis, Stoufflets and Joan Busch

Sun, Feb 28, 2010 at 6:35 PM

To: "MacLean Robert \"Bob\"" <rjmaclean@gmail.com>

A little help, please? Reads like office gossip, but this is exactly what kept everyone so deathly afraid of speaking out, Bob. Seriously. Everyone knew that all of management knew about this thing. Clearly, nobody was worried about it being "wrong" or "unethical." So, "if the big bosses knew and did nothing, I better keep my mouth shut about it, too" was the mentality. Then, when those who are buddies and tolerant of Donzanti's antics were promoted or given prime office positions with schedules that looked like a librarian's hours, we all got the message loud and clear: Shut up and stroke my ego and you'll go places.

There was a time when I was very naive, and I would submit all kinds of memos trying to sell my brilliant ideas of efficiency. Donzanti caught me in the hallway at the Field Office when it was in Irvine and asked me, "Why is it that every time you write a memo, you make me look like I don't know how to do my job?" I was naive and didn't get the implied threat, so I answered: "Mr. D! How would you know what's going on out there if I don't tell you? You're busy here." Stupid, huh? I guess I trusted him strictly because of the title he held. Anyway.....here's the 1st draft. Let me know if I'm missing anything crucial.

One day in or about 2007 I had a personal conversation with then FAM Jason Stoufflet, now ATSAC. He told me the following story:

Jason and his wife, then Acting SAC Frank Donzanti and his wife, and AO Joan Busch had a standing sushi-dinner date on Friday evenings as friends. One evening, Jason's wife was feeling ill and asked Jason if they could skip their standing dinner date. Jason called one of the individuals in their party to let them know he and his wife would not be dining with the group because his wife was sick. Later that night, however, Jason's wife felt better and asked Jason if they could join the dinner group after all. Jason and his wife arrived at the restaurant to find FAM REDACTED as Frank's date. Frank's wife was not there. Jason could see in his wife's reaction that this was unacceptable to her because she liked Frank's wife and thought of Frank and his wife as their friends. Jason and his wife stayed through the end of the meal, but at the end of the night Jason's wife told Jason in no uncertain terms that they will no longer join this group for dinner and Jason would not be joining them alone either.

The following Monday, Einar Knutsen and Charles Ortman called Jason into one of their offices. Einar asked Jason something to the effect of "How was your weekend?" Jason answered to the effect of "Fine." Einar asked Jason something to the effect of "Is there anything you want to tell us about your weekend?" Jason answered to the effect of "No." Einar asked Jason something to the effect of "Was there anyone you might have seen this weekend that you want to tell us about?" Jason answered to the effect of "No." Finally, Einar or Charles said something to the effect of "We know you had dinner with Frank and Michelle." Jason said something to the effect of "Well, apparently you guys are already aware of the situation, and I have nothing to say." Jason said he walked out of the office after his statement, and neither Einar nor Charles stopped him.
