Three days of camps
saw plenty of chess learning and playing

During the spring school break, The Roving ChessNuts held three days of chess camps and over 15 players had hours of learning, practicing and playing chess, along with some running activities and healthy fruit snacks.

The skill range of players was mixed and all were good sports, helping each other.

Some players doing well in rated competition were: Sam Hoekman, Nis-han Abulike, Leo Li, Adam Wenzel, Hasan Mel-ham and Marina Lalic.

Summer chess camps will be held early July and late August.
