the art of socks

The father of organic architecture meets The Art of Socks with Ozone's Frank Lloyd Wright Collection. Wright's work has literally built the way we build today, and we're excited to have his influence as the foundation for this collection.

In true Wright tradition, we began with geometric repetitions and added vibrant splashes of color, twisting, turning and contorting the originals into dazzling new sock designs.

This collection truly embodies Wright's philosophy of functional pieces that enhance the environment and the lives of the individuals using them. We hope these socks will do the same, adding comfort, style and geometric sophistication to your wardrobe.

TREE OF LIFE

One of Wright's most famous motifs, this opus of symmetry is found in the Darwin D. Martin house and has been widely influential in art and architecture ever since

SAGUARO OCTOBER DELIVERY

Originally designed as a series of Liberty Magazine covers the Saguaro design was considered too radical and never used. In the 1970's the design was translated into a stained glass window for the entrance of the Arizona Biltmore Resort. The piece entitled "Saguaro Forms and Cactus Flowers" is today one of Wright's most popular designs

INTRODUCING: FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT MADE IN: JAPAN

Frank Lloyd Wright admitted to only three influences: childhood kindergarten toys, an early mentor, and Japanese art- specifically Japanese woodblock prints.

The inspiration Wright found in Japanese art and the culture that produced it changed the entire direction of his career and, with it, modern American architecture.

To pay homage to this vital source of inspiration we combine the artisan talents of our Japanese mill with the genius of Frank Lloyd Wright.

New sheers and dress socks are exquisitely woven and hand cut to perfection. These new and unique pieces are works of art in and of themselves
