At the next membership meeting: Dan Terrible demonstrating print making.

A few years ago I became interested in printing through works by members of the Phoenix Rising Print Making Cooperative in Columbus. In 2013 I took a class in nature printing at the Touchstone Center for Crafts. I am very much a newbie in this area, but it appears to be a method, really several, for putting images on paper that I plan to pursue. It is something I can do inexpensively in a small space with relatively simple supplies and equipment.

Debbie Lutz Beckert and Lynn Bishop owners of the new salon "Fringe the salon where art meets hair" are the artist /gallery of the month during the July 4th, art walk for ArtCoZ.

Stoey Stout will be playing. Refreshments also, and Fireworks!!

Check out the display of ZAAP artists' work at the Colony Square Mall in the windows of the old Dunham's Sporting Goods store.

Featured Artist for July: Textile artist Jennifer Sands

Jenn Sands is a native of Zanesville who attended The Columbus College of Art and Design for Fine Arts and Fashion Design. She worked at the Columbus Museum of Art for three years before moving back to Zanesville to get her art education license. Jennifer is now an Art Teacher at John Glenn High School.

She has spent time in Iceland, Ireland and Vancouver at artist residencies. You can visit her studio on the lower level of the ZAAP gallery.

From the desk of the director: John Taylor-Lehman

Thank you Essie White and helpers for putting up a display of ZAAP artists' work at the Colony Square Mall. The work and ZAAP banner is on display in the windows of the old Dunham's store near the theatre. The work will be on display until September.

If you are not aware of the two-HUGE ceramic arts related events this fall you should check out the website zanesvilleprize.org. It contains information about "From the Ground Up Ceramics Conference" and "The Zanesville Prize for Contemporary Ceramics". Top prize is $20,000! These are 2 amazing events happening in our town so spread the word by sending the link out to everyone you know.

Gallery G is preparing a "Veterans Art Exhibit" for the Y Bridge Arts Festival August 1 and 2. The tent will be in the "Veterans Area of the Landing". We are looking for framed art work celebrating our appreciation for those who served. For more information please contact Bob Grayson at rgrayson@columbus.rr.com

Important Notice about showing

work: All artwork is to be in the gallery and ready to be hung by 5 pm Sunday evening before the first Friday. No work will be accepted after that deadline. No one is to place art work on the walls, in the windows or on pedestals except the "hanging crew". If work is added after the show is hung it will be taken down and put away until the next show.
