Philadelphia, PA 19567

The Museum is located in the historic heart of Philadelphia, the city that served as the headquarters of America's founding. The site is just 2 blocks from Independence Hall, across the street from Carpenter's Hall, where the Continental Congress first met, and within a block of Benjamin Franklin's home. Museum highlights include:

- Orientation film highlighting the drama and reality of the Revolutionary War
- High tech media, engaging films, digital interactives, and hands-on experiences
- Authentic witness objects that include manuscripts, artwork, weaponry, and personal diaries
- Person stories of America's founding generation including craftsmen, laborers, seamen, farmers, African Americans, women, and American Indians

The new museum owns a distinguished collection of several thousand objects including artwork and sculpture, textiles and weapons, manuscripts and rare books. Permanent and special exhibition galleries, theaters and large-scale tableaux will bring to life the original "greatest generation," and engage people in the history and continuing relevance of the American Revolution.
