OUR MISSION

Our mission is to furnish a safe, supportive, and creative environment to provide grief support for children and their families in their loss journey. Through fellowship, conversation, and art, we encourage the expression of emotions. We provide a relaxed faith-based environment to learn from each other and build life-long friendships.

"She loves it! She says all the time "I didn't cause it. I will be happy again". She has so much grief and loss but I have seen a huge improvement in her mood since she started attending the group. Less sadness, more happy, less tears. She still has the loss but she is learning what to do with it. She looks forward to the group and is excited to do art."

"The class on Saturday helped her see other children had to go through a similar pain and that it is okay to feel in different ways. Thank you for having us in your art home. "

"Thank you for allowing them to feel special and make something that they can treasure and use."

WHAT is CBAG?

Since 2013, CBAG is a no-cost faith-based creative arts program designed to help children, ages 5 to 15, dealing with numerous types of loss.

UTH also offers creative healing for families and adults.
