

Sometimes the living must help the dead

Large numbers of cremated remains sit on the shelves of funeral homes across this Nation and remain unclaimed. Members of Vietnam Veterans of America Shore Area Chapter 12 and Missing in America Project can't help them all, but they can help our veterans and their spouses who are among those thousands still waiting for burial. The award-winning series pilot / documentary that tells the story of their endeavor has just been released on Amazon Prime.

Although "UNCLAIMED REMAINS" focuses on a single individual, it is illustrative of the many thousands yet to be reclaimed and laid to rest with full military honors. It is a message of hope and fulfillment of the vow that no veteran will be left behind.

UNCLAIMED REMAINS follows the Chapter's effort to piece together the life and death of Korean War veteran Pvt. Donald Sutton, whose cremains were located sitting in a funeral home 40 years after his death.
