Dear Folks,

E. T. O.

I've sort of neglected you lately on this mail business, but I'll make up for it and write a regular letter soon.

It's sort of hard to write about things when you can only say so much and then have to stop. Now in my letters to Jean, of course, I can always fill a lot of space with how much I love her and such mush. Would you all like to hear that sort of stuff?

Well, things aren't changing much generally, we're still drawing our weekly rations and eating three meals a day. Having a little excitement, but not too much.

We've just decided to stop swearing in this room. Started a kitty and charging each man three pence (about a nickel) for each cuss word. Should have quite a little drinking fund soon.

Hi, Johnny.
Love to all,
Bud
