OUR FIRM

We are an independent firm, not associated with manufacturers or sale of equipment, supplies or products. ## ABOUT CONSULTANTS

Foodservice Consultants provide independent food facilities planning and design. You should consider utilizing the services of a professional consultant if you need assistance in any of the following areas:

Building or renovating a foodservice facility, faced with an equipment or technology decision, creating a new concept, striving to reduce costs, increasing efficiency and improving quality, trying to determine the feasibility of a project, or needing the services of a design specialist.

When considering hiring a consultant to assist with a foodservice project, a Foodservice Consultants Society International (FCSI) Professional Member should be your first choice. Professional FCSI consultants are trained, experienced, and accredited, much like one would hire an AIA accredited architect for their project. FCSI maintains a global presence with members in over 30 countries dedicated to providing the highest quality of service. FCSI consultants focus on state-of-the-art developments in the foodservice industry. Our founder, Dwane Bosma, has been a member of FCSI since 1993 and became a Professional Member in 1997.
