Want to Chase Away Winter Blues?

Whether You Love Cold Weather Or Not, Health Living Guru, Lee Holmes, Has Some Tips To Lift Our Mood And Lighten Our Spirit.

Let's start with FLAX SEEDS. These superstar seeds are full of Omega-3 Fatty Acids that are essential for our body. Want help to avoid a foggy brain? Want more energy? Want to strengthen your immune system and add fiber to your diet? Start sprinkling flax seeds on your foods.

Next on our list is MACA, a root vegetable, native to Peru. If you want to increase energy, decrease stress, support your immune system and reduce your fatigue, you've come to the right place (or vegetable). It is also rich in iron, a mineral we often lack. How can we incorporate it in a diet? Try adding a teaspoon to your oatmeal or add to warmed milk then stir in a little honey.

Most likely, you are going to LOVE this tip. Incorporating CACAO, the key ingredient in chocolate, is known to boost serotonin and dopamine levels to promote well-being. Please no milk chocolate (too much sugar) but chocolate that contains above 70% cacao.

Winter means we are often lacking in vitamin D, which leaves us pale. Enter the AVOCADO! This beautiful fruit is loaded with benefits to lift our mood, protect our heart and improve digestion. Our body needs a healthy fat to help absorb various vitamins, particularly vitamin D.

Don't forget BEANS, which pack a powerful punch of plant based protein, iron and other nutrients.

I find these to be healthful tips to keep us happy and healthy. Take Good Care, Stay Well and Enjoy the Season.

Be a Courteous Driver

As you well know, Section #4 does not have sidewalks. Therefore residents need to use the streets or lake trails to walk or jog. Please be extremely careful and aware when driving in Section #4 because residents and pets may be on the streets. A few residents have reported drivers that have honked at them repeatedly or driven so close to them as to try to scare them off the street. Unlike sections 1, 2 and 3, the streets in section 4 are privately owned because they are within a gated community. We will be working with the Pct. 4 Constables to assist in making the streets safe for all pedestrians and pets.

TEXAS A&M AGRI LIFE EXTENSION Crane Flies

Crane flies are surrounded by misinformation and misnomers. Some think that adult crane flies eat mosquitoes, but this is untrue. Adult crane flies feed on nectar or are non-feeding. Also, crane flies are sometimes referred to as “mosquito hawks” which is a misnomer. The name mosquito hawk is most often used to refer to dragonflies, but sometimes is also used to refer to a large species of mosquito with a larval stage which feeds on other mosquito species.

Crane flies can be small to large insects- topping out at about 1 inch, with long, slender legs, and a V-shaped suture on the thorax (body section behind the head). Legs tend to break off very easily, so you may often encounter these insects with less than their allotted amount of 6 legs (see image). Adults can be mistaken for giant mosquitoes and may frighten people.

Crane fly larvae are found in moist soil feeding on decaying organic matter. The larvae are wormlike, legless, and without well-developed heads. Some species feed on roots of turf grass or other plants, but usually do not cause enough damage to be considered a pest.

In Texas, crane flies become abundant in the spring. While adults may be a nuisance when entering homes or disturbing outdoor activities, they do not cause damage and do not bite. Keep doors and windows closed and make sure screens are in good repair. Either turn off outside lights at night or use “bug bulbs” to reduce the number of crane flies drawn near the home because of light sources.

UNCONDITIONAL LOVE

Why the relationship between owners and pets is always an unconditional one. As we approach Valentine's Day, think of the great love between owners and their pets.

We all know our pets love us but what is behind their unconditional love? Research shows the bond between people and dogs has strengthened over time, around 30,000 years to be precise. Anyone who has ever owned a pet knows they have the capacity for the kind of unconditional love that is seen otherwise only between a human and its offspring. We are lucky to have so many residents in Woodwind Lakes that love their pets as much as they do.

The gentle nudge of a wet nose or a lick on the hand comes unbidden when we're upset or feeling down. The bounding dash to the door to greet us is also a demonstrable sign of the strength of the human-canine bond.

A subtle change in our demeanor can be picked up and registered by our dogs or cats. Cats, although fiercely independent by nature, do possess a similar capacity for love and nurture, as my cat-owning friends can testify.

Studies have also shown that looking a dog in the eyes can boost levels of oxytocin (a hormone involved in social bonding), in both the person and the dog. It's not just "cupboard love" triggered by a hungry belly. There is in fact nothing artificial that could ever replace that sheer authenticity of feeling. Dogs are the only species that, like a human child, runs to its human when it is frightened, anxious or just pleased to see us.

It is also the only animal, aside from other humans, that actively seeks out eye contact with people and truly wants to be with us. Cats too come to us when we are down and will show they are pleased to see us with a lick on the hand or a gentle purr to express their own feelings of contentment.

Pets give people so much in terms of love and emotional support. Simply stroking a dog, cat, rabbit or even horse can lead to lower blood pressure and can combat stress. The feelings are reciprocated, as our touch can have therapeutic effects for our pets, particularly if they are feeling out of sorts.

Companion animals can provide support and friendship to society's lonely, sick or elderly. They can be friends to those who do not easily understand the world around them. Autistic children for instance can be guided gently from their closed, confusing and isolated worlds by a patient and loving dog or cat. Anxiety disorders and depression also can be eased by the loving presence of a pet.
