

Homeschool Pottery Experience

2015-2016 School Year

In a continued effort to provide pottery throwing lessons to the homeschooling community, UTH has revamped our classes. Please see below for all of the details and dates.

- Classes are first-come-first-serve. Registration with payment are required. Spaces fill quickly; therefore, the complete registration and payment will hold your child's place.
- Classes are for children only. Ages 6 to 10. Older children and adults are welcomed to enjoy our regular lessons on Tuesday and Thursday evening. Younger children are welcome to paint ceramics.
- Classes are kept small to allow for more one-on-one time. Each class is limited to 4.

RECOMMENDATIONS

I was deeply impressed with the friendliness and patience of the instructors. My children were overflowing with enthusiasm and cannot wait to come back next week. I really feel that UTH will be able to fill a void that has been missing in my homeschool curriculum and at an affordable price which is a big consideration with any homeschool family. – Anna J. (Homeschool students)

We had a wonderful time visiting UTH. The kids learned a lot and had a great time making their name plates! – Dawn S. (Homeschool fieldtrip)

I continue to admire Cathleen's patience, level-headedness, kindness, and genuine enthusiasm in everything she does at UTH studio. We are fortunate and truly blessed to have both Cathleen and her Under the Horizon Pottery and Arts Studio in our community. - Beth W.

"Upon entering the front door, you are greeted by the most warm and art driven person in Upper Adams. During weekly art classes, she demonstrates the basic clay techniques, then allows you to develop you own style. She offers a gentle hand and encouraging words, if needed. Cathleen has an up-lifting and fun personality that helps her with teaching children." - Melinda C.
