Endoscopic Spine Surgery

What is it?

Endoscopic Spine Surgery is a type of state-of-the-art surgery that uses small tubular system or micro incisions, assisted with an endoscope for visualization. This type of Minimally-Invasive Spine Surgery (MISS) provides patients with quicker recovery and less pain than traditional spine surgery. It preserves normal spine mobility because the spine is not fused with screws and rods. With experienced hands, most of procedures takes less than one hour and the patient gets back to walk around in only a few hours.

Our Endoscopic Spine Surgery is a true minimally invasive procedure that has revolutionized the treatment of back and neck pain. If you're searching for long lasting pain relief, we can help.

Back Pain Management

by Kaixuan Liu, MD, PhD | Updated: Oct 16th, 2013

Effective Back Pain Management Techniques

Pain Management Treatments are minimally invasive, non-surgical procedures to alleviate chronic back pain and discomfort to aid in the rehabilitation and diagnosis of the underlying trauma or condition. Atlantic Spine Center provides several different types of pain management treatments for managing back pain.

Tightening the Screws on Radical Spine Surgeries: Patients Look for a Better Way

and same day spine surgery.*

West Orange, NJ (PRWEB) October 18, 2013 - Kimberly Chatlos broke her spine carrying her sick mother from bed. She suffered an excruciating amount of pain and turned to Atlantic Spine Center for help. With the advancements in technology and the extreme precision of endoscopy surgery performed by the qualified doctors at Atlantic Spine Center, same day fusion surgery has become a popular alternative to traditional open fusion surgery. It was the relief Chatlos had been seeking for a very long time.

After a year of epidurals and intense pain, Kimberly Chatlos contacted Dr. Frazier at Atlantic Spine Center. After a complete review of her back, Kimberly received a spinal fusion surgery, which resulted in Kimberly being able to walk and exercise again nearly immediately after her procedure.

"I was lucky to find Dr. Frazier," said Kimberly Chatlos, a patient of Atlantic Spine Center. "He saved my life. I feel terrific."

Since endoscopic surgery has become more advanced in the last few years, it is a less invasive surgery that involves a much smaller incision and therefore creates less trauma and blood loss than conventionally offered with more radical procedures. Other benefits of same day fusion are a lower infection rate, earlier ambulation post operatively, and a faster recovery.

Atlantic Spine Center believes in surgery procedures that allow doctors to utilize endoscopic technology, like fusion surgery, discectomy, and SI Joint Fusion or iFuse Implant System. SI joint fusion is performed for sacroiliac joint conditions and degenerative sacroiliitis, which is usually caused by arthritis, injury or infection. At the Atlantic Spine Center these endoscopic techniques allow for less invasive procedures. Patients are looking for a better way to heal from back pain and understand the value in a same day fusion because of a minimally invasive surgical opening. For instance, the iFuse system creates stabilization with the use of three titanium implants that are inserted across the SI joint. Minimally invasive sacroiliac joint surgery is preferred by patients who can't afford to take months off from work or risk prolonged downtime. Doctors have to stay on top of technology so patients have the best care possible and the speediest recovery. With numerous progressive surgery options available at Atlantic Spine Center, patients who have sought pain relief for years, but have been too scared to commit because of the slow healing time of traditional open back surgery, are now realizing they have more solutions for pain relief. Smaller incisions mean healing more quickly and getting back to life much sooner. Some patients are walking immediately after surgery. Kimberly Chatlos, can appreciate the progressive endoscopic procedures offered by top physicians at Atlantic Spine Center...

Generators 101

Most people don't think about buying a generator until they need one. Taking the necessary steps to help ensure you have backup power during a storm is not only smart, it could be essential. Read on to learn more about the benefits of owning a portable generator or an always-ready whole house system.

Shop Now

Know Your Wattage

To know which kind of generator to buy, you need to decide exactly what you want to power up. Decide whether you want to power your entire home or only specific household items like lights, your computer and the refrigerator. Once you lose power, you will want to make sure you have a solid backup plan. A portable generator can fulfill many small household needs during a power outage. For example, a 60-watt light bulb requires 60 running watts of electricity. On average, a refrigerator can use 700 watts. A microwave needs about 1500, and a coffee maker can consume up to 1000 watts. So, depending on what you need to power up during an outage, we'll help point you towards the right generator.

Home Generators

Get power when you need it. Plan ahead by buying a generator before the next power outage, camping trip or tailgating party. We can help you choose a generator that meets your needs, and show you how to get one.

Falls at Imperial Oaks Will Develop 1000 Acres for New Homes

Unlike other developers in Houston, Falls at Imperial Oaks is not facing a shortage of lots and will develop an expansion to the master-planned community of 1000 acres in Spring, Texas.

Houston, TX (PRWEB) March 23, 2015

The Houston new home market continues to surge, motivating builders to focus on new construction. But due to lot constraints, builders simply can't ramp up construction too fast, which is the number one reason Houston is faced with slowing paces. The Houston market has faced an overall lot shortage the last few years. However, Holcomb Properties, developer for Falls at Imperial Oaks, hasn't felt the lot pinch during the real estate boom due to its 1,000 acre land expansion plan that will continue to build-out the master-planned community over the next few years.

The homebuilders at the Falls have built nearly three hundred new units during 2014, with the total number of homes sold in The Falls up an astounding 75%. Due to the rising numbers of residents, Holcomb constructed a new 2.5 million dollar access road at Birnham Woods Drive to connect travelers directly to the existing Riley-Fuzzell Rd and future Grand Parkway Toll Road.

Homebuyers can expect the same award-winning amenities from The Falls expansion, including tennis courts, state-of-the-art fitness, waterfront properties, canoeing and fishing, gated and non-gated sections and greenbelts. A new hiking and biking trail is currently under construction to serve as a social hub for residents who enjoy exercising in the great outdoors.

HEAVY-DUTY TRUCKING TECHNICAL WRITER / STRATEGY

WE MAKE PRODUCTS THAT MAKE A DIFFERENCE™

NEW LIGHT WEIGHT STA-LOCK™ GLADHAND FROM PHILLIPS INDUSTRIES STAYS CONNECTED

Gladhands from Phillips Industries are the perfect choice to ensure a secure trailer connection when space is tight and reduced weight is a goal. The STA-LOCK™ Gladhand combines a lightweight aluminum body with a cast iron connector plate. The heavy-duty connector plate includes a spring-loaded, stainless steel ball bearing that provides a positive lock for gladhand mating.

The “locking” dimple on standard gladhands can flatten out over time leading to a lower breakaway threshold. Additionally, road vibration and turning can cause enough pressure to uncouple the gladhands. Heavy duty cast iron gladhands can be heavy and bulky, and often do not fit on trailers with space constraints. The Phillips STA-LOCK™ Gladhand solves both problems with the right blend of strength and size, offering a single product ideal for any trailer operation.

CHANGE AN ELECTRICAL CORD PLUG END IN 2-MINUTES WITH PHILLIPS QCP™

The number one reason most aftermarket electrical cords fail is due to pin push out in the plug end. Replacing a new plug end to salvage the still valuable used cord can cost more than $30.00, almost as much as a brand new one. Why bother with this time-consuming, costly chore when you can swap a cartridge on a Phillips QCP™ electrical assembly in less than 2 minutes?

The Phillips QCP™ also prevents shorts and other electrical malfunctions by putting an end to wires pulling free from electrical terminals inside the plug housing, and stops moisture and corrosion from creeping into the cable - because all the terminals are sealed in a molded connection. If you ever have to repair it, you can count on a fix in less time than it takes to fuel up.

The QCP™ was one of 2005's best new products and is available on Phillips ABS LECTRACOIL™, ABS PERMACOIL™ and PERMACOIL™ cables. Inexpensive QCP™ cartridges (part number 16-125) should be included in a mechanics tool box, the fleet's parts room, and in the glove box so they are readily available for routine maintenance and emergency repairs at the scales. All Phillips electrical assemblies are chemical and abrasion resistant and have the industry's best re-coil memory. Stop wasting time with used trailer cords by asking for QCP™ by name at any OE Dealer or Authorized Warehouse Distributor.

She's Still Working a FULL HOUSE!

by Heather J. Taylor

Loveable Aunt Becky from the hit show, Full House, juggles home and family while starring in the new series, When Calls the Heart for Hallmark.

Lori Loughlin might have wrapped her role as the lovable Aunt Becky on Full House back in 1995, but that never slowed her down. Two years later, she fell in love with prominent fashion designer, Mossimo Giannulli, the creator of the Mossimo clothing line, and they married and began building a family of their own. Today, she's still running a full house with hubby and two teenage daughters, Olivia and Jade while maintaining a successful career and starring on a new series for Hallmark.

Loughlin grew up in Long Island with her devoted parents who knew nothing about the entertainment industry. From a young age, she yearned to work in the biz. Finally, at age 11, she received a break and signed with a modeling agency.

"My mother was flabbergasted that I received a contract so soon! My parents told me I could pursue modeling, but under the conditions that I kept a positive attitude and maintained my good grades," said Loughlin.

Her next big break was the soap opera Edge of Night. "My agent told me to lie about my age and say I was 18, but when the casting director asked me how old I was, 'fifteen' flew out of my mouth!" Loughlin said with a laugh. But that didn't stop her from getting the part. She met with producers and was cast as the aspiring dancer Jody Travis, a role she performed for three-and-a-half-years.

HURRAY FOR HOLLYWOOD

Loughlin eventually moved to Los Angeles and began the Hollywood hustle auditioning for acting jobs. But, she was the new kid on the block so it wasn't easy. During a dire financial time, she drove to her agent's office and pleaded with him to get her any audition so she could pay the rent. He casually asked if she would be interested in six episodes for a new show called Full House. Of course, she jumped at the chance and fate intervened, eventually providing Loughlin with a fulltime job as Aunt Becky on the popular series.

Loughlin has worked consistently as long as she can remember. She has had the privilege to work with legends like Blythe Danner, Kelly Preston, John Travolta, Jerry Seinfeld, Michael J. Fox and of course, The Olson Twins. She has starred in hits, including 90210, Major Crimes and her own series, Summerland, which she co-created. At the end of the day, the celebrity lifestyle doesn't overshadow her keen sense of self. She knows who she is and where she belongs.

MAKING IT WORK

"I'm not in episodes three or four of the show," Loughlin admitted. "When I was offered the part of Abigail on the TV series, When Calls the Heart, I was worried about the shooting schedule in Vancouver. The producers were amazing and worked with me so I didn't have to be away from home on the weekends. Even though Lori Loughlin and her daughters arrive at the Hallmark Channel Summer TCA event this past summer.

“When Calls the Heart” tells the captivating story of Elizabeth Thatcher (Erin Krakow), a young teacher accustomed to her high society life, who receives her first classroom assignment in Coal Valley, a small coalmining town where life is simple, but often fraught with challenges. Lori Loughlin plays Abigail Stanton, a wife and mother whose husband, the foreman of the mine, along with a dozen other miners, has just been killed in an explosion. The newly widowed women find their faith is tested when they must go to work in the mines to keep a roof over their heads. Tune in to “When Calls the Heart” on the Hallmark Channel on Saturday nights at 8 p.m. Central. The series is inspired by Janette Oke’s bestselling book series about the Canadian West, and reunites Oke with Executive Producer and Director Michael Landon, Jr.

my daughters are teenagers, this is a time when I feel they need me the most,” said Loughlin.

So Loughlin is home every afternoon when her daughters get home from school and she drives them wherever they need to go. When shooting for Hallmark, her Vancouver schedule is one week in Canada and two weeks home. With flex in her sked and a brilliant script in her heart, Loughlin didn’t hesitate to sign on to become one of the strongest female characters on television.

She fondly shares everyday life inside her full house. “I cook for my family every night. I prepare simple, healthy meals using quinoa instead of pasta, organic meats and lots of vegetables.” She also maintains several family gatherings a week, hails to the slopes every year for Christmas and makes sure she is involved with her family’s day-to-day lives. When asked about her fashion faves, Loughlin admitted to loving Tom Ford, but also added that she can be seen in lululemon much of the time because she goes to yoga at least five times a week. She insists it is her yoga discipline that keeps her mind and body healthy.

A POSITIVE SHOW FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

Hallmark’s new series is set in 1910, about women who live in a coal mining town struggling to stay alive after their husbands are killed in a mining explosion. Facing the challenge head on, the widows don mining helmets and assume their husband’s duties in the mines. Intertwined in the conflict, the show is also a romance. Since its debut on January 11, the family show has been well received by audiences and critics alike. With positive similarities to The Waltons and Little House on the Prairie, the new show, When Calls the Heart, directed by Michael Landon, Jr., also stars Erin Krakow (Army Wives; Castle) and Daniel Lissing (Last Resort).

“The women on the show have found their inner strength,” explained Loughlin. “It’s a very relatable and contemporary piece even though it’s a period piece,” she continued. “When I watch TV, there aren’t a lot of shows I can watch with my kids, but I like Hallmark’s sensibility and how the stories tug at your heartstrings. I also like that you can watch all of their shows and then go to bed with a smile on your face.”

The Hallmark star is witty, smart, creative and down to earth. With a career spanning two decades, Lori Loughlin has definitely proven she has the talent and staying power. And above all, she knows how to keep her full house happy. •

THE WORD GAME

Here's what first came to Lori Loughlin's mind when writer, Heather J. Taylor shared the following words:

ciao bella!:

New Year's Resolution?
Politics?
Gluten-Free?
Human Rights?
Miley Cyrus?
Jimmy Choos?

LORI LOUGHLIN:

Be on time.

Beauty CONFESSIONAL

as confessed to Heather J. Taylor

COVER GIRL, LORI LOUGHLIN, AGE 49

ciao bella! "What are your skin care secrets?"

LOUGHLIN "I am very good about wearing sun block and always, no matter what, even when I get home late, I will never ever go to sleep with a dirty face. I wash my face and use a cream cleanser, use some toner and then I've been using Vitamin C in a jar with a dropper. I let it soak in and then use moisturizer and eye cream. In the morning I use moisturizer and then sunblock."

ciao bella! "What is your favorite cosmetic line?"

LOUGHLIN "Laura Mercier – There are really beautiful colors and her brushes are easy to use! I find it to be idiot proof!"

ciao bella! "What hair care products do you use?"

LOUGHLIN "I am using Davines shampoo and conditioner for colored hair right now, but I switch it up and go with others from time to time."

ciao bella! "What is your fitness routine consist?"

LOUGHLIN "I am very into yoga. I try to do yoga every day or every other day, and I also play golf. There have great yoga studios in Vancouver so I go to the studio sometimes when I can fit it in. But I don't get myself into a tizzy if I miss a class. I can always stretch in my hotel room. I never beat myself up."

ciao bella! "What do you do to manage your stress?"

LOUGHLIN "Yoga really helps me physically and the breathing helps me keep centered – deep breaths can always set you straight."

ciao bella! "What is your diet secret?"

LOUGHLIN "Everything in moderation!"

ciao bella! "What is your personal style like and what are your fashion favorites?"

LOUGHLIN "I tend to stick with the classics and what works better with my body. As I get older I see fashion go younger and younger and younger and sometimes I don't feel wearing certain things are appropriate at my age. I don't wear my skirts too short. Tom Ford is very talented on the high end, but in my every day life I go with lululemon."

ciao bella! "What is your biggest beauty secret?"

LOUGHLIN "If I feel like my skin is a little dull or puffy, I do a steam shower and sweat it out. The hot water gives my skin a glow and is a nice pick me up."

Everything's Coming Up Roses

by Heather J. Taylor

Living in Houston has its perks. We are the fourth largest city in the nation, have some of the best restaurants in Texas, and many would call us the nicest of southerners. We are also lucky to have a dedicated resident who spends most of her time helping others.

Homemaker and renowned silhouette artist, Cindi Rose is beyond committed to her family, friends and creating her art. She is constantly on the go, travels frequently, and her schedule makes Madonna's schedule look light.

Silhouette Artist Cindi Rose is Ciao Bella Magazine Cover Girl

Published November 25, 2010 by Heather J. Taylor

Heather J. Taylor gives an insightful silhouette into the giving nature of premier silhouette artist Cindi H. Rose, in the November issue of Ciao Bella Magazine, produced and published by female and animal advocates, Heidi Suprun, which can be viewed on-line.

Cindi Harwood Rose, a renowned silhouette artist and humanitarian, not only can hand out custom profiles from eight, she can do bronze sculptures, cook and prepare an organic feast for a group of 64 Houston women (with her daughter, reality TV star, Briana Rose, as host) (spoiler) she has founded a non-profit for those with critical illness through the Holly Rose Ribbon Foundation (is this enough?)

Cindi, a true Texas rose, shares beauty secrets such as using white sugar to exfoliate your skin, when traveling. As an owner of a medical spa in Houston, Texas with her plastic surgeon husband, Dr. Franklin Rose, both know that nothing comes skin or aging more than a natural approach to life, including helping others, and staying stress-free. In Cindi Rose's "Beauty Confessional" she explains that her silhouette art in black and white, is a pivoting force for her to keep her inside balanced.

She believes in raw juke facts such as the ones at Hippocrates, Dear Lake Lodge, and WeCare as well as using natural food care products such as avocado inside and outside your body. International silhouette artist, Cindi Rose, is featured with her oil paintings, bronze works, silhouette art done at non-profits and

One of Houston's most popular celebrities Cindi Rose enjoys the Texas, barbecue and goodness that are part and parcel of her life. Dedicated to preserving the best art of silhouette cutting, Cindi rose for a while as one of the leading silhouette artists in the nation. And now she's back home, along the way, she has also experienced loss and gain, including the death of her sister, Holly (Holly) who passed away several years ago (she has been married, divorced and remarried in the same area, please, suggest). (In Houston, Texas, last she has used her expertise to create an entire career as an artist for more than thirty years.

What Would Bring Cindi The Most Happiness in Life?

Cindi has a lot of love in her life, raising her children, being a mom and being a devoted wife who supports her husband and his career. She volunteers for a variety of charities, charity events, and spreads love and happiness among children for holidays, on retirement parties and fundraisers. (The husband, a number of years ago when she heard that her son school needed $10,000 for the dance club, she immediately organized an event and raised the needed money by spending two solid days, eight hours a day, in a class, singing away at hundreds of silhouettes.

When asked what would bring her the most happiness in life, Cindi looked puzzled for a moment and then responded with a sweet smile. "I wish I could play my children's wedding," she said. A dedicated mother, she continues to focus on her children, ensuring they have the best love possible. Rose is all about taking care of the people who surround her and giving the best to everyone. (charities that are near and dear to her heart.

SKIN CARE. Among her many areas of expertise, Cindi Rose is certified in organic skincare and uses only natural, chemical-free products. She exfoliates daily with brown's yeast, baking soda or white sugar (when traveling). To tone her skin, Cindi uses a mixture of Bragg organic apple cider vinegar and water, in place of harsh alcohol-containing astringents. To protect her skin from the sun, Cindi uses zinc oxide. To moisturize, Cindi applies naturally fragrant sweet almond oil on dampened skin. She also likes to moisturize with sunflower oil mixed with fragrant essential oils. At bedtime, Cindi prefers to use organic cold-pressed food grade coconut oil to moisturize. She also enjoys layering in lavender or vanilla scented essential oils, for the relaxing aromatherapy benefits they provide.

HAIR CARE. Cindi uses hair care products with Argon oil. Among its many cosmetic benefits, argon oil smooths hair cuticles and provides elasticity to damaged hair. If her scalp or hair becomes dry from overprocessing, she uses Bragg apple cider vinegar as a restorative treatment. Cindi also shared that fresh squeezed ginger, ginkgo biloba & mint are great natural ingredients which stimulate hair growth.

DIET. Cindi has enjoyed the benefits of raw foods and juicing since the age of 17. Cindi's staple juices contain celery and cucumber (they contain the least amount of sugar) and she sweetens them with a little bit of apple juice. Another of her homemade elixirs is wheatgrass juice. Cindi bleaches her hair with hydrogen peroxide and rinses it before juicing to ensure the absence of mold. She enjoys cooking every day when she is in town with organic local foods or organic foods from California. Some of her dietary staples include salad, cage-free eggs, hormone-free Freeberg goat milk, kosher turkey (because the animals are treated humanely) and when she goes for a meal she enjoys Harvest Organic Grill and Season's 52 for their healthy choices. One of her occasional "guilty pleasures" is a nice juicy steak at Americas.

FITNESS. In her twenties Cindi was a fitness model. She won 11 body building contests and hosted an exercise show on television. Cindi still works out when she is in town at least five days a week at The Houstonian. Her fitness routine includes yoga, circuit training and the careful use of free weights. She also enjoys using a stretch ball.

PERSONAL STYLE. Cindi believes that a great sense of style is expressed by the way a woman complements her look with an interesting scarf or a wonderful accessory. She thinks that the way a woman puts an outfit together is more important than how much it costs. Some of Cindi's favorite places to shop are BB's Classic, Versace Collection, Elizabeth Anthony-Esher Wolf, Nema Boutique, Jonathan Blake and Toolies.

STRESS MANAGEMENT. Cindi's favorite spa getaway is Hippocrates Health Institute in West Palm Beach, Florida. In her daily life, Cindi finds that her artistic endeavors bring about a sense of inner peace. She shared that she is grateful for her God-given talent and art has helped to heal her during the most difficult times in her life. Like the balance found in the yin and yang of her black and white silhouettes, Cindi Rose finds balance in life through art. •

Rosie would be proud. Jake Wilson and his post grad colleagues from University of Michigan-Ann Arbor have belted out two seasons of clever story telling with exceptional musical numbers that tap dance straight into the heart of theater lovers. The Battery’ s Down, an original online comedy series created by Wilson, has managed to come out on top with its impressive cameo collection and choreography. The show introduces amateur actor, Jake Wilson, living in New York City, doing whatever it takes to land a gig on Broadway.

Like so many other web series, the show is shot like The Office, with a hybrid blend of improvisation and scripted content that serves as a backdrop for the musical showcase. Think Joss Whedon’ s “Once More with Feeling” from Buffy the Vampire Slayer but without the vampires or demons (and without Whedon’ s genius dialogue). In this coming of age tale, the combined cast does a great job at the grunt work required of every up and coming actor who dreams to be on Broadway. The ensemble stays in step with original musical scores and tiptop choreography. They sing, they act and yes, they dance.

On a potential dime, Wilson has managed to lure Broadway stars such as Tony winner, Christine Ebersole (42nd Street) and Tony nominated Daphne Rubin-Vega (Rent) to the series and enlisted the most promising up -and-coming composers, Benj Pasek and Justin Paul (who wrote the show’ s theme song). Musical contributions also come from David Kirshenbaum (Vanities, Summer of ‘42), Laurence O’ Keefe (Legally Blonde, Bat Boy!), and Michael Patrick Walker (Altar Boyz). All of the performers whip it into shape with creative choreographed dance sensations, costumes and locations that include New York, Las Vegas and (of course) a gay cruise line.

If you are a New York City resident and love the theater, the inside jokes and constant cameos will impress you. But for everyone else out there, you might miss the innuendos. For instance ...With big Broadway beats built into their small budget production, The Battery’ s Down at times feels like a very good NYU student film project. The cast receives my standing ovation for enticing me to sing along and tap my feet to the tunes, It’ d be great to see what the kid could do with a bigger budget.

A round of applause goes out to the notable musical numbers, “You Should Be In That,” “This is Your Life” and “Natural.” These melodies are sure to see some hits on iTunes. But if you find yourself enthralled in every number, just hit Jake up for the soundtrack. It’ s available, along with tee shirts at www.thebatterysdown.com.

The New York Times Singles Out ‘One in 8 Million’

Time seems to stop as Todd Hesler, a New York Times photographer, snaps countless pictures of ordinary faces that dwell in New York City. The common becomes the extraordinary with the ease of story telling presented in One in 8 Million, a weekly web series about a diverse group of characters that survive and sometimes thrive in the city that never sleeps.

On the subway, streets, and hoods of the five boroughs you will find people with unique stories to tell. This New York Times series lets viewers look inside the lives of a few innocents who describe their careers, passions, day-to-day routines and many unknown contributions to the city. The stage is set with all walks of life - from mozzarella makers to an urban taxidermist - as each story unfolds with a quick succession of black and white photographs accented with narration from the subject.

Not that it's too daunting a task in NYC, but the Times found a truly eclectic mix of residents. One in 8 Million does exactly what you'd expect, showcase inhabitants of the Big Apple and highlight what makes a particular individual different from the 7,999,999 others around.

For instance, Ra Ruiz, a 22-year old lesbian explains while her family was homeless she took refuge with a group of gay youth. Even though she was forced to grow up in the streets, her determination prevailed and she continued her education. Her courage is prevalent as she describes her fears of living without a roof and dodging homophobic gangs.

We also meet Michael Kramer-Metraux: The Wedding Wardrober. The 68 year-old director of men's formal wear at Saks Fifth Avenue and son of a French silk purveyor demonstrates his pride and fashion sense as he takes viewers to the back rooms of his workplace, where needle meets thread.

And, then you have the urban taxidermist, who suffers from MS while offering the city her services, turning blood and guts into art. The self-described "queen of hare-brained ideas" has shown her animal pieces at the SoHo design house.

The series introduces survivors. (If they can make it there, they can make it anywhere, right?) And whether they have endured the roller coaster of life or medical trauma, the subjects evoke empathy and hope during downtrodden times.

Check out One in 8 Million at NYTimes.com.

STAPP TAKES A BIG STEP WITH UNTOLD STORY Lead Singer of Creed, Set to Launch “Tell-All” Book This Fall

(BOCA RATON, FLORIDA, June 26, 2012) — For over a decade, Grammy Award winner, singer, songwriter and front man of the mega band, Creed, Scott Stapp has bottled up his emotions and concealed his escapades and personal dilemmas from the world. Recognized as one of the most accomplished artists of the modern rock era, Scott Stapp is set to release his first-ever, uncensored memoir called Sinner’s Creed, unleashing behind the scene realities about his life-threatening suicide attempts, alcohol-induced rampages and intimate details about his abusive childhood.

Scott Stapp found his true voice when he collaborated with David Ritz of Rolling Stone Magazine to write a compelling story of his life. Ritz is a notable writer of biographies, which include works for Janet Jackson, B.B. King and Aretha Franklin, as well as, the best seller, “Divided Soul: The Life of Marvin Gaye” released in 1985 that depicted a similar story to Stapp’s of childhood abuse and harsh religious upbringing.

In a world stimulated by celebrity, the first question anyone embarking on a star studded driven career must ask is: Do I have what it takes to handle the pressure of fame? Scott Stapp is certainly no stranger to controversy in the media, and yet over the last few years, he has managed to ostracize himself from society to avoid the stress of cyber-bullying and related conflicts. The rise and fall of fame has been a constant during his career, but he has managed to maintain his status as a multi-platinum artist and sell more than 50 million albums worldwide. Die-hard Creed fans are relying on the band to stick together through thick and thin and continue producing the ultimate rock experience. Stapp’s tremendous songwriting skills have proven time and time again that he has the strength that it takes to survive. And in Sinner’s Creed, the message is clear, genuine and concise. Stapp’s memoir is full of heart and emotional vulnerability and regardless of his setbacks, losses, and battles with depression. Stapp’s unique vocal style, blended with compelling, lyrics continues to breathe life into the rock and roll music scene...to be continued.

Malibu Trial Court to Decide if More Money Should be Paid Involving Record Judgment for Hilton and Hyland

Court will decide exactly how much money should be paid by Susan Loggans to compensate Hilton & Hyland for attorneys' fees and costs incurred in a hard-fought legal battle that included a nine day trial before a Malibu jury. (CASE SC084111)

Malibu trial court to decide if an additional $350,000 in attorneys fees and costs should be paid by Susan Loggans, a Chicago attorney, to Hilton & Hyland and Chad Rogers, her real estate agents, as part of a record judgment involving the sale of Ms. Loggans' beach front property, located in the exclusive Malibu colony. Judgment should be awarded by end of the week. The Malibu jury's award of a commission in the amount of $360,937.50, plus prejudgment interest in the amount of $41,137.20, in favor of Hilton & Hyland is a record in the state of California for the sale of a single family residence.

On Friday, June 16, 2006, the Honorable Cesar C. Sarmiento of the Los Angeles Superior Court heard oral argument concerning how much money should be paid by Susan Loggans to compensate Hilton & Hyland for attorneys' fees and costs incurred in a hard-fought legal battle that included a nine day trial before a Malibu jury. On April 5, 2006, Judge Sarmiento entered the judgment in the case, Hilton & Hyland v. Loggans, LASC, Case No. SC084111, that affirmed the jury's award of a commission in the amount of $360,937.50 in favor of Hilton & Hyland, and added an additional $41,137.20 for prejudgment interest. Judge Sarmiento's ruling is expected to be released shortly and will determine if the total amount of the judgment will exceed $750,000.

At the trial of the case, the jury learned that in October 2001, Chad Rogers, who was 24 years old at that time and a successful real estate agent at Hilton & Hyland, was originally introduced to Ms. Loggans by Sheldon Adelson, the owner of the Venetian Hotel in Las Vegas, Nevada. As a result of that introduction, Mr. Rogers played a critical role in assisting Ms. Loggans in locating and purchasing her Malibu residence in May 2002 for $5,750,000 ... The dispute arose due to Ms. Loggans' refusal to pay a commission to Hilton & Hyland and Mr. Rogers under the terms of a one-page, written contract, the Single Party Compensation Agreement, that protected Hilton & Hyland's and Mr. Rogers's interests in the event of a sale of Ms. Loggans' Malibu residence to the Mascolos...

Gerald L. Sauer, lead trial counsel for Hilton & Hyland and a partner in the law firm of Sauer & Wagner LLP, said, "This case shows that even rich and powerful attorneys are bound by the same rules that govern everyone else. The mere fact that you can afford to go the distance in a lawsuit and hire a prestigious law firm does not mean that you will win in the end." Mr. Sauer handled the trial with Vina Chin, another attorney at Sauer & Wagner LLP...

HOME IS WHERE THE HALL IS

Sengelmann Hall is a fully restored 1890's Texas Dance Hall, located in Schulenburg, Texas - halfway between Houston and San Antonio and down the road from Austin. Join us for live music and dancing, step up to the bar for a classic pre-prohibition cocktail, and enjoy authentic home cooked cuisine with a Euro-Texas twist.

For generations, couples met here, married here and danced here every weekend as they built their lives together. Carry on the Texas dance hall tradition with your wedding, reception or private event held at Sengelmann Hall.

Sips & Suds Authentic Saloon & Biergarten

Enjoy a pre-prohibition cocktail in our authentic Texas saloon, join your friends on the picnic tables in our biergarten shaded by live oaks, or watch the sunset from our balcony above Main Street.

Drinks at Sengelmann Hall echo the spirits of generations past with a pre-Prohibition era cocktail list. Cocktails are handmade using top-shelf spirits, fresh juices, house-made syrups and a variety of old-fashioned bitters.

The bar hosts 14 beers on tap with particular focus on Czech and German favorites and Texas microbrews. Upstairs, the dance hall serves up Sengelmann Hall's secret recipe, Whiskey Punch. (And it packs quite a punch!)

You can also enjoy a selection of great late-night snacks, traditional German and Czech bar fare and hot, homemade soups inspired by secret family recipes.

The bar downstairs is an exact replica of the mahogany bar that adorned Sengelmann Hall from 1894 until the 1940's. And be sure to stop by the upstairs bar on your way to the balcony. This unique bar is built into the original bar and hatchback booth, which the Sengelmann brothers covered in chicken wire to discourage theft!

THE FORUM

The Forum L.A.'s Premiere Entertainment Landmark

The Forum is a premier multi-cultural events and entertainment destination in Southern California. Our venue is a classic example of our city's history and its desire to grow and prosper. We have quite the reputation of attracting major concerts, family shows, sporting events, conventions, religious events, banquets and other community events to the arena. The Forum is an established, recognizable landmark in the nation.

The arena is a destination, primed to deliver an experience like no other. The arena generates an emphasis on the importance of sports and entertainment in Los Angeles' continued economic development. With SMG as the worldwide leader in venue management at the helm, we will continue to provide a dynamic facility and host exceptional entertainment in L.A.

Location: The Forum is located in Inglewood, CA and is within driving distance of three of Los Angeles' most heavily traversed highways. The Forum is only a few minutes away from the Los Angeles Airport and there are more than 10,000 hotel rooms in the area surrounding our venue.

Capacity: The Forum can seat up to 18,000 and will accommodate half-house, theatre-style, end stage and many other configurations.

Parking: The on-site parking lot has 3,500 parking spaces including disabled and VIP parking.

We offer sponsorship opportunities, group packages and a variety of events which appeal to all segments and interests in the community.

Our dedication to the community...

The continued success of The Forum will help to rejuvenate the Inglewood area and provide entertainment to people of all ages.

The Forum can deliver a series of memorable moments of excitement that are unforgettable. These "event experiences" include:

- National and regional family shows (multiple day events)
- Concerts that cater to all musical genres: Latin, Rock, R & B, Gospel, Filipino, Country etc.
- Multi-cultural events
- Conventions (Assembly style)
- Single day special events
- Local business and social functions
- Forum Club banquets, wedding receptions, holiday parties and catered functions.
- Film shoots
- Concert and theatrical rehearsals
