Dorval Parks & Playgrounds To Open '61 Season

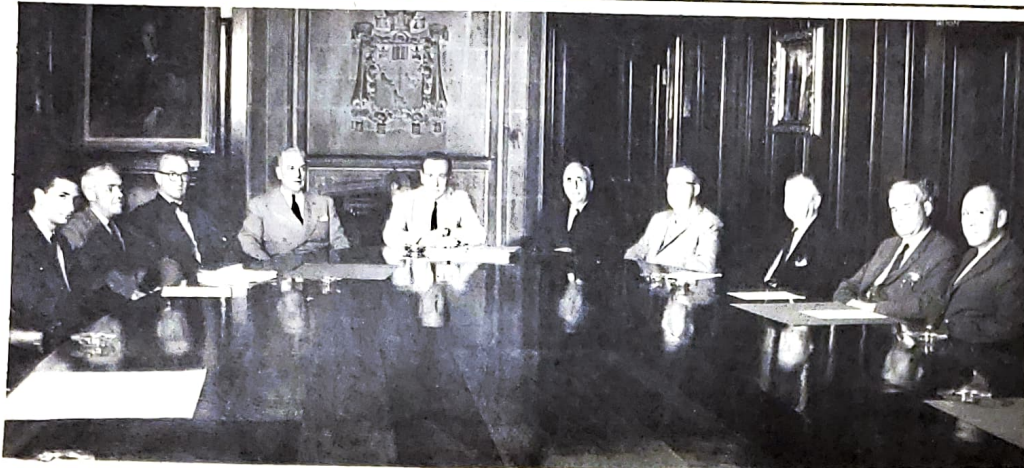

This past Tuesday saw the Dorval Parks and Playgrounds renew the familiar expressions of Opening Day smiles, keen enthusiasm, and eagerness for fun, mingled with the curiosity of "getting to know you". Since then, the days have been filled mainly with registration of new members, parades to announce the parks' opening, and crafts and sports activities which offer opportunities for the boys and girls to become acquainted with one another and with their play-leaders.

Apart from the usual increase in new park members, many well-qualified play-leaders have been added to the playground staff. The parks and personnel in the Dorval system are as follows: Director of Parks and Recreation - Mr. Roger Bastien; City Recreation Leader - Miss Elizabeth Laurie; Assistant Supervisor - Mrs. Judy Hansen; Senior Leader - Mr. David Fisher; Ballantyne Park - Mr. Erland Pepper and Miss Joan Laschinger; Courtland Park - Mr. Yves Pelletier and Miss Sheila Leigh; Neptune Park - Miss Danielle Champagne; Nihon Park - Miss Renate Bidner and Miss Francine Raymond; Oriole Crescent Park - Miss Sally Hall; Riverside Park - Mr. Pierre Lesperance; St. Charles Park - Mr. Murray Thomas and Miss Louise Valquette; Surrey Gardens Park - Miss Fran Laurie; Victoria Park - Miss Christine Loveys; Walters Park - Miss Mireille Pelletier; Westwood Park - Miss Marilyn Loken.

For the opening week, enthusiastic efforts are being made to give parents and play-leaders the chance to meet one another. To fulfill this aim such activities as parents' night and showing movies have been organized. The movie

The boys and girls are expecting hard competition from the clubs on the Lakeshore.

D.O.T. Project To Alleviate Aircraft Noise

Extension of an existing runway and the construction of an additional runway parallel to it has been announced by the Department of Transport as part of a $50,000,000 long-term master plan to improve passenger handling facilities and keep Montreal International Airport at Dorval abreast of developments in the air transportation field.

The runway projects would help to alleviate the jet noise problem by enabling aircraft to land and take-off without passing over built-up residential areas. Instead they would pass over industrial land to the southwest.

It is reported that these steps taken to curb jet noise in the Dorval area are a direct result of representations made to Ottawa and the Department of Transport by Mayor John Pratt, M.P., and citizen protest groups in Dorval.

DRA Organizes Swimming Classes

Over 1,000 children are registered for the free swimming lessons at the Dorval Recreation Association Pools. Schedules for the instruction periods are being drawn up at the three pools. Children who are registered for lessons, or other members who wish to participate in the lesson programme may obtain information from gate-attendants at the pools. Mr. Gord Kerr, President of the D.R.A., pointed out that even Beginners are divided into three classes, so that the placing of the pupils in the proper classes takes some time.

Swimming classes for retarded children will be given this year at Surrey Gardens Pool under the direction of Mr. C. Bradley, Pool Manager. The lessons are available to any retarded child on the Lakeshore. An instructor will be provided for each child and parents may also assist with the children in the water.

Anyone interested in information about the project should contact Mr. C. Bradley, ME 1-0443 or obtain information at Surrey Gardens Pool. The lessons for retarded children given last year proved very successful.

The present membership of the D.R.A. stands at 1,400 families. Mr. Kerr said that the pools could accommodate additional memberships of a few hundred families, without overcrowding.

F.P.P. Moves Into The Philippines

Right: Norma after distribution of new clothing from Plan, shows her first doll and the first smile anyone can remember.

The first Filipino child to be enrolled by Foster Parents' Plan since the organization began its merciful work in the Philippines recently, is sad-eyed, wistful, orphaned 10-year-old Norma Salot. She has been assigned to the members of No. 440 "Oxford" Wing of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association, Woodstock, Ontario.

No one had ever seen Norma smile. She had never gone to school. She never had the shoes or clothing to make her feel presentable. Her extreme shabbiness kept her indoors most of the time. Always ashamed of her appearance and the absence of personal belongings, she had actually hidden from the people around her, and busied herself trying to keep clean the one-room shack where she lived with her married sister, the sister's husband and two children.

Norma lives in the Intramuros section of Manila. Completely bombed out during the war, it has become a great, unbelievable slum with squatter shacks covering every available inch of space. Norma's shack, a makeshift wooden affair on 2-foot stilts, is fashioned from scorched boards and slats. Everyone sleeps on the floor. The only furnishings are two wooden benches. There is one public shower for the entire community...one public toilet.

Plan's Associate Executive Director, Lenore Sorin, was in the Philippines when Norma was enrolled. "We asked her what she wanted most," she recalls. "She replied that she wanted a towel of her own so that she could shower, and that her big dream was to go to school. She had never had a doll. That was an unthinkable luxury.

"She found it difficult to comprehend what was happening to her. We immediately provided the precious towels, shoes, new underclothing, a new pink dress, a doll dressed in pink, pink hair ribbons, a comb, brush, toothbrush and paste, school enrolment, and even a brief case to carry her books. And then," she added thoughtfully, "when it had all come to her, Norma smiled. Robert Sage, Plan Director in the Philippines, and I have had years of experience. At times we feel we are 'case hardened'. But I must admit that Norma's first smile brought lumps to our throats. And yet Canadian and American foster parents are creating a similar miracle every day in all countries in which we operate."

Conditions in these Manila slums are indeed incredible. "There are no pavements," said Mrs. Sorin, "and because of the constant dripping of the spigots at the public showers and the slopping of water from the pails which everyone has to carry to their homes, the streets are nothing more than muddy pathways. I wore rubber boots on a sunny 90-degree day and the mud came to my ankles. There is no place for the children to play so they gather under the houses which are on stilts, and wallow in the mud along with the piglets many raise to try and sell for a few pesos."

Plan officials were particularly happy that their work in the Philippines was launched by assigning the first child to a Wing of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association, The National Association, at a recent annual meeting, decided to make the "adoption" of such children an Association project in which almost 90 Wings will participate. This means that as many as 90 children in the Philippines, Hong Kong, South Vietnam, France, Italy and Greece will be given the hope of life itself thanks to these groups across Canada.

You, as an individual or as a member of a group, can help a love-starved child such as Norma. Your $15 a month provides the child with a cash grant of $8 a month, plus food and clothing parcels and necessary medical care. You receive a photo and case history, exchange monthly letters with your child, translated both ways by Plan. A warmly rewarding personal relationship is established. There are 30,000 Normas in the Philippines alone. For information write: Foster Parents' Plan, P.O. Box 65, Station "B", Montreal.

WANTED! DRYCLEANABLE BELTS

Fabric-covered contour belts that cannot be drycleaned are a serious problem as measured by the Textile Analysis Department of the National Institute of Drycleaning, Silver Spring, Md.

Contour belts are shaped belts... shaped to fit the body at the waistline. They are more difficult to manufacture because they are shaped in a curve instead of cut and sewn in a straight line.

A stitched belt is made by fitting the dress fabric over a cardboard interliner and woven interlining fabric. It is then machine-stitched to a plastic backing. When the belt is drycleaned, the plastic backing shrinks to a degree that causes the dress fabric of the belt to wrinkle or ripple. The plastic backing is soft and stretchable while wet with dry-cleaning solvent or warm from the steam of pressing. While in this condition, the backing can be stretched to eliminate the rippling. But once the backing dries or cools, the fabric ripples again. The unstitched belt is made by fitting the dress fabric over the shaped cardboard interliner. The fabric is held taut with cuttapercha, an adhesive made from the milky juice of certain types of Asiatic and Malayan trees. The backing is pressed to the fabric and interlining and held taut by an adhesive. When the belt is drycleaned, the solvent softens the adhesive. When this occurs the dress fabric separates from the interlining, resulting in rippling of the fabric. If the dress fabric is light in color, the adhesive may stain it. In some cases the backing may separate from the liner and dress fabric.

Sure and it's enough to make a man grab his rod and tackle and head for his favorite fishing grounds before the dew is off the grass. This catching scene taken at Gold Creek, near Revelstoke, B.C.

Windsor Gardens Girls Softball

Windsor Gardens Pony Tall team won their third in a row, in a game against Courland Park 30-8. However it must be said that the much smaller team showed terrific spirit, and until the fourth inning, held Windsor Gardens to a 4-4 tie.

Deserving of special mention for Windsor Gardens were the Lee twins - Beth & Janice; Kerry Lowe, and Brenda Hamner, who now leads the league with 5 home runs.

The Windsor Gardens Junior girls team, behind the coaching of John Foster, who is assisted by Bill Brennan, played Strathmore, and won their first game in 2 years.

After being beaten badly by Dorval East in their first game, the girls showed good team effort in coming from behind to win the game 14-12.

Barbara Bryant hit the only home run of the game for Windsor Gardens which was pitched by Cheryl Buckland, with Margaret Oliver catching.

LAWN MOWING THROUGH HISTORY

Few things contribute so much to the outward attractiveness of one's home as a velvet-smooth lawn. And few things entail so much work.

Ever since men first began to surround their domiciles with stretches of beguiling greensward, they have been seeking ways to reduce the labor involved in keeping the turf neatly clipped.

The grass-gobbling midget dinosaur mounted on a stone-wheeled platform that Fred Flintstone pushes around his yard in the TV cartoon comedy, The Flintstones, is, of course, a fanciful grass-cutting contraption, but it does contain a nugget of truth. For, in the absence of other lawn-mowing machinery, animals did get into the act at a comparatively early date.

"Sheep were the first lawn mowers," says George F. Runge, Jr., director of the Moto-Mower Lawn Research Center and an authority on the subject. "Sheep were used to crop the spacious lawns of Washington's Mount Vernon and Jefferson's Monticello, and around the stately country homes of England."

In city and suburban areas, however, where sheep were unwelcome, grasscutting was still done, entirely by hand up to a little more than a century ago. Men at first employed short-handled, crescent-bladed rickles imported from the grain fields to trim the turf, bending double to reach the lawn surface with their hooked blades. Later gardeners became adept at swinging the long-handled scythe, which permitted them to work erect. English "carpet mowers" and American bowling greens of the early 19th century were shaved to billiard-table smoothness by scythes in expert hands.

All the while, however, men were dreaming of ways to reduce this palm-callousing back-breaking chore of keeping green grass in check. Many and ingenious were the solutions they came up with. One hopeful inventor devised a pair of giant shears mounted on a hand-pushed roller. Another built a skate-bar cutter operated by a hand crank.

In 1839 Edwin Budding, a British engineer, invented the first practical mechanical lawn mower. Budding got his idea from machinery used to shear the pile on wooden cloth in the Gloucestershire textile factory where he worked. Fearful that someone might steal his invention before he had a chance to patent it, Budding did his testing on his back lawn after dark -- thereby greatly mystifying his neighbors.

Delighted with his own invention, Budding advertised: "Country Gentlemen may find, in using my machine themselves, an amusing, useful and healthy exercise." Budding's spiral-blade principle is the same one used on reel-type mowers today.

Close-cropped lawns invited greater recreational use, both in this country and abroad. By the 1870's lawn tennis and croquet had become widely popular. The golf craze followed a decade or so later, further increasing the need of grass-cutting equipment. Heavy, horse-drawn mowers were put to work in public parks. One unsuccessful machine of the day was propelled by a man seated on a tricycle. A more ingenious gardener harnessed a camel to pull his grass-cutting behemoth. In 1893 a steam-driven mower weighing one and one-half tons was patented, but was never built.

With the development of the internal-combustion engine in the early 1900's, motorized lawn-care for the first time became feasible. Col. Edwin George, a Detroit industrialist and real-estate developer, saw the need for an engine-driven mower. Since nobody made such a device, he built one himself, using the gasoline engine from an early-model washing machine as his power source.

In 1919 George founded the Moto-Mower Company and started selling his power mowers, the first to be offered to the public. Cumber-some and expensive by present-day standards, these machines filled a long-felt need and proved an instant success; the company built and sold 500 of them the first year. Many early Moto-Mowers, dating from the 1920's, are still in constant service, and the company still fills orders for replacement parts from time to time.

In 1925 Moto-Mower production was moved from Detroit to Richmond, Ind., a city already known for its output of hand mowers as "the lawn-mower capital of the world"; and in 1953 the company became a subsidiary of the multi-line Dura Corporation.

Since the end of World War II the demand for power mowers of all leading makes has grown prodigiously.

Today there are two main types: reel mowers, which snip the grass with spiral blades revolving against a stationary base knife -- the old Budding principle; and rotary mowers, which slice the leaves by means of horizontally whirling blades, similar to a scythe.

A reel mower is heavier and in some cases more difficult to adjust, but gives a velvet-smooth cut. A recent improvement, the "trimmer reel," makes it possible to mow right up to the edge of walks, driveways and flower beds, thus minimizing hand trimming.

A "trimmer reel" lets you cut close to walls, trees, shrubs and other obstructions, reducing the need for hand trimming. (Moto-Mower)

Simpler in construction and lighter in weight, the rotary will cut tall grass and weeds that a reel can't handle. It will also mow on rougher ground. Most rotaries will trim within one-half inch of obstructions. An additional advantage is the rotary's suction effect, which lifts the grass blades erect for cutting.

Reel mowers are usually self-propelled -- that is, the engine that turns the blades also drives the wheels. Rotaries may be had with or without this self-propelling feature. "Walking" rotaries are more maneuverable, but leave more work to the operator. Self-propelled models, while somewhat more expensive, have rapidly gained in popularity and today are preferred wherever there are slopes, terraces or large areas to be cut, or where women or teenagers do much of the mowing. "Riding" mowers, most expensive of the lot, reduce physical effort to a minimum.

In mowing your own lawn with today's improved equipment you'll save yourself work and achieve a finer result by following procedures recommended by experts. George Runge, who as research director presides over Moto-Mower's extensive test and demonstration plots at Milford, Mich., offers these six suggestions:

- 1) Keep your mower blades as sharp as possible. Dull blades shred the grass tips, which later turn brown.
- 2) Never mow your lawn while it is wet. Both reel and rotary mowers work best on dry grass.
- 3) In general, mow the grass when it grows to about 1/3 of an inch above the desired height.

- 4) Vary the mowing path and direction of cut from time to time to avoid patterned appearance.
- 5) Mow slopes and terraces up and down, rather than side to side, to avoid scalping.
- 6) Clean clippings off your mower after each use, and keep the machine lubricated and adjusted at all times.

"Your power mower is a precision-made, automotive-type machine," says Runge. "It deserves the same regular attention and service that you give your car."

SPECIAL BASEBALL EXHIBITION

On July 10th at Courtland Park 8:30 p.m. Howie Ashton's Four Man Team or better known as the Four Fabulous Fatmen will meet the Strathmore Fathers coached by Lefty Hackert.

The Four Man Team is made up of four brilliant fastball players from the Strathmore area, a catcher, pitcher, first baseman and short stop. The Four Man Team will entertain with many tricks and surprises. You will see pitching behind the back - pitching from 2nd base and pitching blindfolded. You will also see fantastic baserunning. To top it off the first baseman and the shortstop will play cards from time to time at second base when the game is going on, leaving only the pitcher and catcher to face the opposing team.

The Four Man Team is composed of - HOWIE ASHTON, former star shortstop and centrefielder who played 10 years in famed Snowdon Major Fastball League in Montreal. Howie made the All Star Team five times and was on two Eastern Canadian Championship Teams, Thrift Stop & Shop 1948 and Dow Brewery 1954. He also played for Robitaille Motors and was playing coach for Kroehlers and Diamond T in other years. He managed the Pepsi Cola team 1955. Last year played for Strathmore, the Dorval League Champs. Bats right and throws right.

PETE DAWSON, former football star with Lakeshore Juniors. Pete is the catcher on this team and calls the many pitches from pitchers Howie Ashton and Sid Patterson. Bats and throws right and is a long ball hitter.

Lefty Hackert since leaving the cricket fields of Eton has coached many fine softball teams. On the Strathmore Fathers he has lined up many great players; few of them are Morris "Rocket" Arless, Bill "Bambino" Barkas, Jolly Cholly Ledger, Ken Hughes the "Splendid Splinter", and many others.

Howie Ashton advises that if the Four Fabulous Fatmen win this game, they will challenge CFOX Terriers. The game is sponsored by Strathmore Community Association.

Here is the type of letter many Canadians receive every month from desantite children overseas whom they have "adopted" through Foster Parents' Plan. With each letter comes a translation. This one, from a 12-year-old Chinese boy now living in Hong Kong, reads in part: "On March 28 I received from you through Plan, school fees HK $45.00 (US $8.00) and two white T-shirts. I am very happy, and very grateful to you for your wonderful support. When I received your money and gifts, you seemed also standing in front of me. I can feel the spirit of your love. I must try my very best to study hard, and will not fail your kind expectation. You foster child, Lai Sum."

 Information on how you too, as an individual or as a member of a group, can help an impoverished boy or girl in Europe or the Far East, may be obtained from Foster Parents' Plan, P.O. Box 65, Station B, Montreal, Quebec.
