FEATHERS IN THE WIND

My family refers to me as the "Queen," I have yet to receive a crown or scepter. If there any jewels involved they must either be A) hidden, B) stolen or C) never existed.

So far my "royal decrees" have fallen on deaf ears as anyone can attest to who speaks to Charlemagne or the heirs to the throne who have a knack for hearing only those things of importance to themselves.

This past week made me want to issue some royal mandates.

It would begin on Sunday when the Crown Prince called Charlemagne to ask about water pressure.

We live in an older home so Charlemagne makes a daily check of the basement - dungeon - winter bee staging/storage area. All was well in the morning, but by afternoon a pipe had burst on the West side.

Luckily Charlemagne got the water turned off inside the house, but outside we were anticipating a duplicate of Niagara Falls.

I personally have a motto that the best things our ancestors ever did was to leave the Buffalo area, as on that particular Monday Buffalo was being hit with 11-15 inches of snow. Of course it would have been MY ancestors who didn't want to move at first, but that is characteristic of that branch of the family.

Anyway as the yard was slowly becoming a pond I thought of "30 Rock" and the ice skating rink. We could have this gold figure float over the pond and charge admission. The problem was who to select.

I didn't have to mull this over too long since the service company came over and fixed the problem which sort of ruined my plans.

AMANA NEWS AND NOTES

Amana Christmas Bird Count

The 2021 Christmas bird count in the Amana Colonies was taken Monday, Dec. 27, a day notable for its unseasonably warm temperature and clear skies. Hence Amana bird watching volunteers, spotted 49 different species in the colonies. That number is 1 shy of their all-time record of 50 species set in 1998, they reported.

This year once again the trumpeter swans were the star of the show with almost 400 swans seen. The bird watchers believe this is all one flock, but that they often disperse in groups as small as three swans. These groups can be seen in and around the Lily Lake, and in fields along the Iowa River near High, West and South Amana.

Oddly, as bird count volunteer Andrea Haldy related, there were a smaller number than average of winter birds like Juncos and Tree Sparrows spotted. These species are typical winter dwellers in Iowa, and in years past, more have been noted on the count. Lack of snow may have made the darker-colored birds more difficult to see, one bird watcher reckoned.

Over 1,000 Canada Geese were counted here along about 1,000 Mallards. The large Mallard count was a surprise given the late date. Perhaps due to the warmer temps the waterfowl were lingering here over the holidays. Typically by December Mallards have decamped south.

Well I thought everything was fine again when one of the furnaces broke down.

Our son and daughter-in-law sort of wonder why we're always cold, but putting on the stately ermine, velvet and such trapping of royalty becomes tiresome. Besides, I think the neighbors are tired of holding the robes and have a sort “blindness” from all the flash bulbs.

Well the rest of the week has been relatively “tame.” I did venture out in the royal coach and decided a new one would be a good idea, but standing and looking at the new “horseless” carriages gets dull.

OBITUARY

Mary Ellen Sandersfeld, age 88, of Amana, died peacefully on Saturday, January 8, 2022 at The Bird House Hospice Home of Johnson County in Iowa City. She was in the loving company of family. Visitation will be at Kloster Funeral Home, Marengo, from 3:00 – 7:00 p.m. on January 12. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a.m., January 13, at First Lutheran Church in Conroy. Burial will be at First Lutheran Church cemetery.

Mary Ellen Martinson was born on September 23, 1933 to Frank Wilmer Martinson and Irene Katherine Alvina Martinson (Schwartz). She grew up—along with her brothers Harold and Edwin and her sister Gloria—on the family's farm near Conroy, Iowa. She graduated from high school in Conroy.

On May 20, 1953 she married the love of her life, Russell (Russ) Sandersfeld, in St. John's Lutheran Church. The couple settled in Amana, Iowa and raised five children: Randy, Vickie, Dan, Michael, and Jason.

Mary Ellen was a devout Christian and attended First Lutheran Church, Conroy. She was active in many church programs, serving as the Sunday school superintendent for 13 years. She led a junior choir for seven years, arranged and taught a weeklong vacation bible school for 12 summers, and directed Christmas programs for 12 years. She also sang in the choir at First Lutheran Church for over 40 years.

In 1967 Russ and Mary Ellen established The Colony Village Restaurant. Along with their family, the couple built the Colony Village into one of the most well-known and successful independent restaurants in Iowa. Over the years, Russ and Mary Ellen owned and operated—at times simultaneously—several other restaurants, including Old Ironsides and The Kozy Inn in Cedar Rapids and The Colony Village in Homestead. At the restaurant, no job was too big and no detail too small for Mary Ellen. She single-handedly managed the business's payroll and employee scheduling and pitched in when the kitchen needed help. Mary Ellen was quick to personally and professionally assist those with whom she worked. She was genuinely interested in others' lives, and made lifelong friends with many coworkers.

Outside of the restaurant business Mary Ellen had many interests and hobbies, including music, writing, cooking, and bridge club. She played the accordion, piano, and organ and taught piano lessons. Mary Ellen was a prolific poet; her favorite subjects were the church choir, friends, and family members. She enjoyed hosting picnics at the family farm. Frequently she was the primary voice of reason at Hawkeye tailgaters, where she played the accordion to accompany Russ's stumptf fiddle-infused Schnitzelbank song. Her driving purpose, however, was her family. She sought always to create a loving, warm, and welcoming home for her husband and children.

Mary Ellen is dearly missed by her children: Randy, of Amana; Vickie (Chris) of Iowa City and her children Joshua (Claire), Jessica, and Kaitlyn (Kevin); Dan (Wendy) of Amana and their children Adrian and Graham; Michael (Heidi) of Amana and their children Gunther and Ellery; Jason (Sarah) of Shueyville and their children Garrett and Wyatt. Also loved by Mary Ellen are five great grandchildren: Martin, Evelyn, Hayden, Isabelle, and Jayce.

Mary Ellen was preceded in death by her parents; her husband, Russ; a brother, Harold; and her sister, Gloria.

A memorial fund has been established in Mary Ellen's name. Contributions to the fund will go to support Essence of Life Hospice and The Bird House Hospice Home of Johnson County.
