Websites!

Educational websites and Apps (to Use While Social Distancing)

Source: www.mayasbooknook.com

1. Scholastic Learn at Home

A free, 20-day curriculum that includes four activities daily. Curricula are divided by grade level and include fun stories, videos, and hands-on activities.

2. PBS Kids Learn and PBS Parents Play & Learn

Educational media for children ages 2-8, including over 35 apps. PBS Kids Games and PBS Parents Play & Learn are two of our favorites. Can also be used offline when no internet is available.

3. Khan Academy & Khan Academy Kids

Khan Academy has created a blog post that shares how their materials can be used at home during school closures. Lessons can be accessed on computers, tablets, or phones and cover kindergarten through early college material in math, reading, science, history, and more. It is designed for children ages 2-7 and focuses on early reading, math, language, and social-emotional skills.

4. SplashLearn

SplashLearn is a fun program for children in K-5th grade that features an individualized learning path. The app can also be used without internet connection.

5. Mystery Science

Fun videos and activities from Mystery Science. They have provided a site that includes mini-lessons that are made for remote learning, with materials that are likely already at home. Parents can also sign up for a free account to get even more lessons.

6. StoryLine Online

Storyline Online features videos of celebrity actors and actresses, like Viola Davis, Kevin Costner, and Betty White, reading children's books. Each book also includes an activity guide, with suggested grade levels, that can be used by parents or educators. Popular books like A Bad Case of the Stripes, Catching the Moon, and The Kissing Hand are included.

Workshops/Webinars/Classroom Resources

(K-12 friendly with adult guidance for younger kids)

1. Let's Talk! Dialogues on Race Initiative The National Museum of African American History and Culture is committed to inspiring a more tolerant and inclusive society. We seek to impact the dialogue around race, racism, and other challenging topics through work with educators, parents and the general public.

4. Undesign the Redline: <http://www.designingthewe.com/undesign-the-redline>

Undesign the Redline — designing the WE

UNDESIGN THE REDLINE. is a framework for unearthing our most deep, systemic and entangled crises. This interactive exhibit, workshop series and curriculum explores the history of structural racism and inequality, how these designs compounded each other from 1938 Redlining maps until today, and how WE can come together to undesign these systems with intentionality.
