

Wake Point School of Energy Healing

About Our School:

The study of healing through the human bioenergy field can be a life-changing experience. At WakePoint School of Energy Healing, it is our mission to provide you with a thorough knowledge of hands-on healing through the human bio-energy field. Profound healing work requires an individual to recognize their unique healer within. The faculty and staff at WakePoint are committed to guiding your mastery and certification in the practice of energy healing.

The complete Energy Healing Certification Program is presented in the beautiful and sunny town of Colorado Springs, Colorado. Our program is designed to accommodate those traveling from a distance as well as local residents. With the majestic Rocky Mountains and serene picturesque views, what better place can you find for contemplative learning and growth?

The Search:

The quest for enlightenment and the understanding of life's meaning are age-old pursuits. Everywhere, people are seeking something deeper in their lives, a clearer sense of their own nature. Students seeking to discover his or her true essence, self-awareness, self-responsibility, and self-empowerment are faced with limited resources. WakePoint teaches this art and science through extensive practice of techniques, experiential exercises, lectures, and support groups.

Energy Healing:

WakePoint provides a stable and secure environment in which students engage in the natural progression of their own enlightenment while developing powerful skills and techniques to convey to their own personal and unique style of healing. Knowledge of the development of full sensory perception, opening to genuine spiritual guidance, deep exploration of psychological processes of the self, body psychotherapy, and understanding the structure and function of the human energy field are keys to an individual stepping into his or her full power as a healer.

Curriculum:

At WakePoint School of Energy Healing, this holistic field of study is divided into four parts for the complete certification-training program. We emphasize hands-on healing and the development of healing skills. Classes span a period of four days in a row and are held two to four months apart.

Our workshops are designed to give participants a dynamic basic hands-on introduction to energy healing and a lesson on contacting their "healer within."

Weekend Introductory Workshops are held approximately four to six times per year in various cities and locations.

Caring Staff:

Founder and Director, Deborah Kerbow, is a gifted healer and teacher with over twenty years experience in alternative healthcare. Deborah offers WakePoint students a unique blend of talents stemming from a rich background including various forms of healing modalities. Deborah holds a certificate from the Barbara Brennan School of Healing and is also a graduate of the Phoenix School of Holistic Health. She has taught Bioenergetic Anatomy at Parker College through the American Massage Therapy Association.

Faculty and Staff at WakePoint, working under the guidance of Deborah Kerbow, work to qualify students to share their gift of divine self with the world.

Quote (from website):

" To those of you who thirst for knowledge of the true purpose of your own existence, the truth lies waiting within you. It is up to you to say "Yes" to the inner light that reveals this truth, and to allow this magnificent power to upwell and penetrate the shadows of illusion that distract you from knowing the true nature of your being. From my heart to yours, I invite you to join us on this extraordinary path, and to become the unique radiant expression of all that you are."
