Dr. Appel pledges to do his utmost using his experience, knowledge and expertise as a rare coin dealer, to make the best purchases or sales for his clients. The rare coin market is volatile. Because prices can move sharply higher or lower he cannot be held responsible for price changes. He will recommend and make coin purchases that he believes are properly suited for his clients, but cannot guarantee that they will increase in value or even maintain their purchase price. Dr. Appel will sell a client's coins for what he believes are fair dealer prices. If he represents a client in an auction he cannot be held responsible for technical, electronic or other errors.
